DECATUR CASE TO GO TO THE COURT

Its Decision Will Rest on Very Narrow Lines.

Hazing Charges Against Others to be Taken Up.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 3.—The prosecution introduced witnesses today to disprove the statements of those who had testified for the defense in the court-martial proceedings against Midshipman Stephen Decatur, Jr., of Portsmouth, N. H., charged with hazing fourth-class men Isaac N. McCrary of Calvert, Texas, and Gaylord Church of Meadville, Pa. It is practically certain that the case will be finished and given to the court today, and it is conceded that the decision in the case will rest on very narrow lines. Although McCrary and Church testified to separate acts of hazing on the part of Decatur, there was no additional witness to any act, and Decatur has denied them all emphatically.

It is generally admitted that the strongest case has been made on the fourth specification, which states that Church was hazed by being compelled to do "No. 16." Although Decatur claims he did not order him to do this, he admits that he did order him to report to his (Decatur's) room, and that some one else gave him this order in his presence, Midshipman P. P. Marzoni, a witness for the defense, also made this statement. Marzoni is under a charge of hazing.

It is reasonably certain that the court-martial of Midshipman Decatur will conclude today. The court will take up the case of Midshipman Worth Wright Foster of New Albany, Ind., a first-class man, charged with hazing Midshipman Charles S. Roberts of Joliet, Ill., tomorrow. It is alleged that Foster hazed Roberts by compelling him to get under the table during a meal, and also by compelling him to drop from the top of the door frame. The latter form of hazing is a particularly dangerous one, as the victim strikes the end of his spine against the floor after a fall of three feet.

WRITING LETTER OF REPRIMAND

Bonaparte Does Not Concur in Findings in Young Court-Martial.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Although not concurring in the finding of the court which found Commander Lucien Young guilty of "remissness in the performance of duty" and failed to find him guilty on the charge of "neglect of duty," Secretary Bonaparte, in his review of the case made public today, approves without comment the recommendations of the judge advocate general. The latter, in announcing his non-concurrence in the finding of the court, says:

"After careful and painstaking consideration of the evidence adduced, this office does not concur in the findings of the court nor in a number of the court's rulings upon the admission of evidence. In order, however, that Commander Young may not go wholly unpunished, it is recommended, as best subserving the ends of justice, that the proceedings, the findings upon specification five and the sentence be approved and that the findings upon specifications one, two, three, four and six be disapproved."

"The remissness in the performance of duty is based on the finding upon specifications five which allege that Commander Young failed to approve the smooth steam log of the Dennington for the months of November, December, 1904, and January, February, April, May and June, 1905, prior to the explosion on board that ship last July.

Secretary Bonaparte is now preparing the letter of reprimand to Commander Young.

JOHN A. M'CALL RESIGNS.

Alexander E. Orr Elected President of New York Life.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—John A. McCall today resigned as president of the New York Life Insurance Company. The resignation was accepted by the board of trustees, and Alexander E. Orr was promptly elected to the presidency of the company. Mr. Orr's salary was fixed at $50,000. President McCall had a salary of $100,000 a year. Mr. Orr, the new president, is a retired merchant of this city. He is president of the rapid transit commission and was formerly president of the chamber of commerce. He is a director in many financial and philanthropic institutions of the city. He was born in Ireland in 1831.

Call Money Still High.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The high rate for call money continued today, the first loan after the opening of the market being made at 40 per cent. By 11 o'clock, however, the price had receded slightly, and loans were offered at from 25 to 30 per cent.

GERMANY HAS NO HOSTILE DESIGN

Orders 20,000 Cars so as to Move Troops.

Action Due to Preparations Made by France.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The railway administration placed orders last week for 20,000 freight cars, at a cost of $50,000,000, with manufacturers of five countries, stipulating delivery by the middle of February. These contracts were distributed among makers in Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Italy.

Inquiries made regarding the reasons for urgency resulted in obtaining the statement that the ordering of the cars was a precautionary measure, the general staff desiring to be ready to move troops if necessary by the first of March. This is only a proper measure of prudence. It was affirmed, in view of the extensive military re-arrangements going on in France, which, among other dispositions, include the movement towards the German frontier of six regiments of artillery, or 150 guns. The ordering of these freight cars is only in consequence of the French preparations, and must not be taken to indicate a hostile design on the part of Germany, whose peaceful intentions remain unchanged. The step taken is due to the conviction that the best preservative of peace is complete preparedness for any eventuality.

The word war is not used because such a word in itself would be a provocative, and every interest both in and outside the government shrinks from such a possibility, unless it be a small group of militarymen. The government will probably regret the publicity of this intelligence, but its transmission seems necessary to a proper understanding of the drift of events, and of how both France and Germany are strengthening their diplomatic position on the eve of the Moroccan conference by materiel preparations.

No doubt exists here that the French and German policies will differ in the conference on the question of policing the Morocco-Algerian frontier, and on some less important questions, under the conference agreement all the participating powers must agree to the conclusions of the conference or the situation reverts to the status quo. In other words, if at the conference all the powers except one agree upon plan for international control of Morocco the conference will have been in vain, and if the situation becomes as it was before the powers assented to call the conference serious disagreements between those specially interested may arise.

GRANTED NEW LICENSES.

Bars at the Parker House and Young's Hotel, Boston, Re-Opened.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Having been granted new licenses on the payment of $4,600, the bars at the Parker House and Young's Hotel, which were closed about 10 days ago by order of District Attorney John B. Moran, because of violations of the screen law, were reopened about noon today. Lawyer Melvin O. Adams, representing J. Reed Whipple, the proprietor of both hotels, surrendered the old liquor licenses to the board of police today, and was immediately granted new licenses after he had deposited a check for $4,800 with the clerk of the board.

The license for the Hotel Essex, which was also revoked, was temporarily withheld because of a difference of opinion between the counsel for the hotel and the board. It is probable that a new license will be issued for the Adams House next Friday, when the 14-day limit for advertising the proposed license will expire.

Counsel Adams for Parker's and Young's took the position that the district attorney's interpretation of the law must be accepted unless Mr. Whipple chose to bring the matter to the supreme court, and that the simpler way, though perhaps the more expensive, would be to surrender the old licenses, on the ground of their questioned legality.

RE-ELECTED WITH NO OPPOSITION

No Counter-Nominations for State Officers.

Charles E. Harvey for Clerk of Superior Court.

(Special despatch to the News.)

PROVIDENCE, January 3.—The senate and house met in grand committee at noon today for the election of state officers. The present incumbents were re-elected without opposition, no counter-nominations being made. The officers chosen were as follows:

Commissioner of Sinking Funds, for three years—Eben N. Littlefield of Pawtucket.

Inspector of Scythe Stones—Charles H. Maguire.

Inspector of Beef and Pork—Benjamin P. Moulton.

Clerk of the Supreme Court—Bertram S. Blaisdell.

Clerk of the Superior Court for Providence and Bristol Counties—Walter S. Reynolds.

Clerk of the Superior Court for Newport County—Charles E. Harvey.

Clerk of the Superior Court for Washington County—W. Herbert Caswell.

Assistant Clerk for Bristol County—Henry M. Thompson.

Inspector of Cables—Frank T. Pearce.

State Auditor, for three years—Charles C. Gray.

Members of the State Board of Education—Frank E. Thompson of Newport, Frank Hill of Hopkinton.

The election of a clerk of the superior court for Washington county was postponed, the clerk, Henry A. Thomas, having died this morning.

In the senate rules were adopted with but slight changes from those of last year. The hour of meeting was fixed for 11 a. m., and the joint rules and orders were also adopted.

The annual report of the adjutant general was presented by the governor and ordered communicated to the house.

Speaker Dennis presided in the house, the members chose their seats for the year, and then adjourned to 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

NEGROES GROWING WORSE.

Governor Vardaman Opposes Spending Public Money for Their Education.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 3.—Governor James K. Vardaman, in his annual message to the Mississippi legislature, which assembled yesterday, again took a strong stand against spending public money for the education of the negro, saying in part:

"As a race the negro is deteriorating morally every day. Time has demonstrated that he is more criminal as a free man than as a slave, that he is increasing in criminality with fearful rapidity, being one third more criminal in 1890 than he was in 1880.

"In the South, Mississippi particularly, I know he is growing worse every year. You can scarcely pick up a newspaper whose pages are not blackened with an account of an unmentionable crime committed by a negro brute, and this crime I want to impress upon you is but the manifestation of the negro's aspiration for social equality, encouraged largely by the character of free education in vogue which the state is levying tribute upon the white people to maintain."

TEAMING CONTRACTS INCLUDED.

Mayor Fitzgerald to Investigate Boston Street Department.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Mayor Fitzgerald announced today that he would make an investigation of the street department. This is upon the suggestion of Charles Logue, one of the city school house commissioners, who was named by the mayor yesterday as temporary superintendent of streets, after the resignation of Superintendent of Streets James Donovan had been accepted. The investigation will take in the pay-roll and teaming contracts particularly.

LIBERALS SIDE WITH WITTE.

Actions of the Reds in Moscow Have Alienated Their Sympathies.

MOSCOW, Jan. 2.—Governor General Doubassoff said to the Associated Press today:

"I consider the exposition of the revolt in Moscow to be impossible. The 'Reds' have alienated the sympathy of a large portion of the Liberals, who have been inclined to look with something more than complacency on the idea of an armed uprising. The events of the last few days, however, have filled them with horror and have driven the Liberals and even the radicals to the side of the government, which alone is able to preserve order. Most of the landholders of the revolt have either been killed or ruined and practically all the cities which they have been accumulating for months have been captured. No matter what the inclinations of those still at liberty may be, I am convinced that they will not again be able to precipitate a reign of terror."

While declining to give the details of the losses on the insurrection have not yet been completed the government pointed out that these losses were greatly exaggerated. This, he said, also applied to the property losses. The only large conflagrations which had been caused were the Sytin Printing, which was valued at $700,000, the Schmidt factory and part of the Muzhoff factories. The damage done by shell and shrapnel to the factories and houses could be regarded as comparatively small cost. Most of the houses burned were the property of speculators, but the government protected the rights to the commercial interests. Much, on the eve of the holidays, were damaged by the exchange of several millions.

The number of persons executed so far, the governor general said, but a fraction of those who deserved death. Those executed were all proved guilty of murder. Their leaders would be killed by the revolutionary tribunals, but the most guilty officials, he thought, would be tried by the ordinary courts. The military courts would be gradually withdrawn. He believed that the present state of affairs would be permanent.

Reports that the government contemplated the arrest of the Liberal leaders, Professor Muromtseff, president of the first duma, and Prince Trubetskoi, were denied by persons in touch with the situation.

The general opinion is that the Liberal leaders will not be arrested unless they openly advocate a revolution.

Joseph Chamberlain, speaking at Birmingham, England, last night, referred to the recent speech of Premier Balfour, in which the latter declared that the government's policy would be to maintain the present fiscal system. Mr. Balfour's speech, Mr. Chamberlain said, was a disappointment to him. He had hoped that the premier would declare in favor of a change in the fiscal system. Mr. Chamberlain said that he was in favor of a change, and he thought the country was in favor of a change. He was not in favor of a general tariff, but he was in favor of a tariff which would enable the government to make such arrangements with the colonies as would bind the empire together. He was in favor of a tariff which would enable the government to make such arrangements with the colonies as would bind the empire together.

BALFOUR'S ELECTION ADDRESS

Former Premier Refers to Home Rule and Fiscal Reform.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Arthur J. Balfour, the former premier, issued his election address today. In it he says that the country knows the true issues of the present contest and will not be misled by the cries of the opposition. Mr. Balfour says that the Chinese labor question has been exaggerated. After referring to the settlement of the new Ministry, he says: "Ireland and the Church will be the subjects of the next session of parliament. The Irish land act will be amended. The Church of Scotland will be disestablished."

Mr. Balfour says that he regards it unthinkable that the Conservatives of Ireland will not support the Union. He says that the Liberals have not yet made up their minds on the question of home rule. He says that the Liberals have not yet made up their minds on the question of home rule. He says that the Liberals have not yet made up their minds on the question of home rule.

TO BE REBATE REFEREE.

Ex-President Cleveland to Act for Life Insurance Companies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland has agreed to serve as a referee to act for the three life insurance companies, the Equitable, the Mutual and the New York Life. Mr. Cleveland will not speak in the court of last resort in the settlement of all disputes between the companies and their agents or between the companies and policyholders. In case of failure to adjust cases Mr. Cleveland will receive for his services a salary of $15,000 a year, to be paid jointly by the three companies named above. The late Thomas B. Reed served as a similar capacity for the three big companies shortly after his retirement from Congress, but the office was discontinued by the companies.

Persons familiar with the life insurance situation expressed the opinion today that the naming of Mr. Cleveland as rebate referee was only the first step in a movement which may result in making the ex-President a most powerful factor in the reorganization of the life insurance business. These persons were inclined to regard Mr. Cleveland's appointment as a judge in rebating cases as merely nominal. In their opinion an effort will be made before long to have the ex-President act as a general adjuster for the three big companies—that is, as an arbiter of all life insurance questions between the three big companies. That there is in the present emergency a great desire on the part of the companies to stand together and present a solid front in the reorganization process is an admitted fact. There are a hundred and one different matters springing up between the companies regularly which, if referred to an independent arbiter, would be quickly settled with satisfaction to the policyholders.

Before Mr. Cleveland would agree to accept the refereeship he insisted upon pledges by all the companies that he would be seconded in his efforts to stop the practice. The Equitable, the Mutual and New York Life have accordingly entered into "an ironclad" agreement with each other to put a stop to the rebating of premiums. They have learned that any agent found guilty of rebating shall be summarily dismissed from his company's service and will thereafter be barred from employment in any of the companies participating in the agreement.

The Armstrong investigating committee of the New York legislature has stewed exclusively in its examination of witnesses the cause of the bitter row which in the tremendous profits and rivalry between the big companies to write new business. If through the medium of Mr. Cleveland's services competition can be put upon a reasonable basis, the first steps toward that end will be taken.

THE YERKES WILL.

Provides for Art Galleries and an $800,000 Hospital.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—In his will filed today by Clarence A. Knight, his attorney, the late Charles T. Yerkes makes many public bequests, including one in trust, the income to be paid to the University of Chicago for the maintenance of the Yerkes Observatory, located at Lake Geneva, Wis.

The remainder of the estate is to be erected and divided into four equal shares. The income from two of the shares is to be paid to Mrs. Yerkes during her lifetime, the income from one share to be paid to his son, Charles E. Yerkes, during his lifetime and the income from the remaining one share to be paid to his daughter, Bessie L. Gouldmella, during her lifetime.

On the death of Mrs. Yerkes the trustees are to incorporate under the laws of the state of New York a corporation for the purpose of conducting a hospital, to be known as the Yerkes Hospital, and out of the principal of the estate set aside for the wife, less the $750,000 to go to the Yerkes galleries, to be used for purchasing a plot of ground in the borough of the Bronx, in the City of New York, and proper buildings for the erection of a hospital thereon, the aggregate cost of the ground and buildings not to exceed the sum of $800,000, the trustees then to pay over to the persons designated as trustees of the Yerkes Hospital the remaining portion of the one-half of the estate set aside for his wife, as well as any accrued income thereon remaining, to be expended by the trustees to maintain the hospital.

It is also that the hospital shall be open to the public without regard to [illegible] or any patients received [illegible] whose financial [illegible] are not such as to enable them to pay for the necessary treatment [illegible] be treated free.

TO LEAVE STATE COLLEGE.

Butterfield President of Massachusetts Agricultural Institute.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of the Rhode Island College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, was elected president today of the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of President Henry H. Goodell. Mr. Butterfield has accepted the position. Mr. Butterfield was selected at the annual meeting here today of the trustees of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. He will assume his new duties in July.

President Butterfield was born in Michigan in 1868. He was graduated from the Michigan Agricultural College (agricultural course) in 1891. In 1895 he was made superintendent of the Farmer's Institute of Michigan. He was also field agent of the Michigan Agricultural College for a number of years. In 1902 he received the degree of A. M. from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, specializing largely in sociology and economics. In the autumn of 1902 he became instructor in rural sociology at the university, and in December of the same year was elected to the presidency of the Rhode Island college, where he has served for nearly three years. He has written considerably on various phases of rural sociology.

THE NEWPORT JOURNAL AND WEEKLY NEWS.

DID NOT HAZE EITHER MAN.

Midshipman Decatur Goes on the Stand in His Own Defense.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2.—The court-martial which is trying Midshipman Stephen Decatur, Jr., of Portsmouth, N. H., for the hazing of Cadet Chaplain Isaac N. McCrary of Texas and Gaylord Church of Pennsylvania, resumed its session today. The testimony of Midshipman Decatur in his own defense revealed the fact that midshipmen in the United States navy are in direct conflict in statements they have made under oath.

Decatur denied specifically and positively all the statements made by McCrary and Church which connected him with their hazing. He said on the stand that he had never hazed either of the men and did not even know McCrary before he saw him in the court-martial room.

McCrary had testified positively during the first day's session that Decatur had ordered him to stand on his head and to do "No. 10" and Church also said that Decatur had given him a similar order.

The cross-examination brought from Decatur the admission that he had ordered Church to report to his room and that some one there had compelled the underclass man to perform "No. 10." As Decatur was the ranking cadet officer present, the prosecution will contend that this fact is sufficient to fix the offense of hazing on him. The defense contends that under the charges as well as the act of 1874, the mere contemplating of or allowing hazing is insufficient, and that active participation must be proved.

Decatur's case is attracting great attention, and a determined effort is being made to save him. He is a great grandson of the famous naval hero of the same name and stands No. 6 in studies in the class which will graduate next month. He has some very powerful friends, who are willing to help him in every way. Admiral Dewey is a relative, but little help can be expected from this source if Decatur is convicted.

THE ORIGINAL RICH AND PURE

BORDEN'S CONDENSED MILK COMPANY, N.Y.

WADSWORTH NOMINATED.

Received 75 Out of the 104 Votes Cast in Assembly Caucus.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 2.—James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of Livingston county, son of Congressman James W. Wadsworth of the Thirty-fourth Congressional district and son-in-law of the late Secretary Hay, was nominated tonight by the Republican Assembly caucus for Speaker of the Assembly, and will be elected to that office tomorrow when the Assembly convenes.

Mr. Wadsworth had 75 out of the 104 votes cast in the caucus. Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of St. Lawrence, receiving 1 and J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester 15. The vote was taken by open roll call, and there was no attempt to secure a secret ballot, as had been expected.

This result brings to a close one of the most remarkable Speakership campaigns in recent years, characterized by marked factional bitterness. Mr. Wadsworth was not among the candidates originally in the field, but was proposed by Governor Higgins in a formal statement, and in addition to the support of the governor and his friends was regarded as having the approval of the President.

Mr. Merritt had the backing of State Chairman H. H. Odell, Jr., and his friends in the state organization, who fought with marked determination for his election, and, failing that, for the defeat of Mr. Wadsworth.

WOMEN OF THE GREAT WEST.

[Harper's Bazar.]

We mentioned to some friends that we had aimed to acquire a little wisdom on the simple life by studying these new countries, but they went into spasms of impolite laughter at the suggestion. It seems that the women hold on to all the frills they used to know, and acquire all the new ones they can hear of, as a means of proving their social status, and of transforming their present place of residence into the nearest possible semblance of the one they left behind. When they move into town off the ranches, and discard sunbonnets and Mother Hubbards, they wear chiffon hats with brims a few inches wider than eastern modes. After a few years of town and club life they become—oh, wearisomely like every one else! One of them, herself a woman of brains and energy, said that no one lived the simple life here, because none had the strength of mind to follow the recipe.

"And that is?" we asked.

"Just to be yourself," she answered. And we thought she was quite right.

HOUSING THE POOR.

[Everybody's Magazine.]

The most interesting part of municipal trading and the part that comes the closest to the world's problem is what is called the "housing of the working classes," classes being as clearly recognized and established by English law as by English practice. The crux of the painful situation in England is over this matter. If the slum dwellers had decent houses, enough light, air and sanitation, with enough food, there would be no fears about physical degeneration and no hordes of Hooligans in the East End. Moreover the housing problem in England is aggravated by the peculiar land system. As nearly all the land is tied up in great estates and cannot be sold, the growing populations of great cities are congested within rigid limits, and when improvements, as for instance the building of a railroad or of a market, demolish existing dwellings the inhabitants have literally no roofs for shelter. The municipality, therefore, is being driven to the expedient of finding ground and building houses to be let to the dispossessed workers. Under the leadership of the example of the London county council these activities have become very general in English cities. Nearly every London borough has a housing scheme under way.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Their Work During the Past Year Reviewed.

Chairman Barker's Annual Report to the City Council, for the Committee.

The annual report of the Public School Committee, prepared by the chairman, Dr. C. P. Barker, and ordered by the committee to be presented to the City Council, is as follows:

To the Honorable City Council of the City of Newport.

Gentlemen: The Public School Committee herewith present their annual report together with the reports of the superintendent of schools and of the heads of the several school departments for the school year ending in June 1905.

The opening of the schools in September was delayed one week from the eleventh to the eighteenth because it was feared that the attractions of the various ceremonies of Old Home Week would prevent a full attendance in the schools. To make up for this loss of time the closing of the schools in June has been deferred from the twenty-second to the twenty-ninth.

The enrollment for the first term shows a moderate increase over that of last year as appears in the following table:

	Nov. 23 1904.	Nov. 29 1905.
Enrolled in High School,	358	368
Enrolled in Grammar,	946	1003
Enrolled in Intermediate,	779	801
Enrolled in Primary, Kindergarten and Ungraded,	1578	1530
	3660	3702

A comparison shows an increase of 47 in the total registration this year. In the grades above the third there is an increase of 95, while in the lower grades, up to and including the third, there is a decrease of 48.

This year as for several years past the department is somewhat hampered by a lack of sufficient room. At the opening of the schools it was at once apparent that a new seventh grade school must be opened. For this purpose a room in Clarke school, formerly used as a private office by the superintendent, was taken. There are now 29 rooms whose enrollment is 50 or more. Of these, three have 59, one has 60, one has 61, and one has 62. A part of this crowding will be relieved when the old Rogers High School building becomes available for the schools of lower grades. In the high school the overcrowding is worse than elsewhere and worse even than last year, when 258 pupils were seated there, while this year the number is 252. The condition is intolerable and teachers and pupils are longingly anticipating the time of removal to the new building. This committee has authorized the transfer of the school as soon as the building is turned over to the department and some preliminary steps have already been taken.

The new Rogers High School building is admirably adapted to the requirements of the school. It is centrally located and convenient of access for the high school pupils, about an equal number living north and south of it. It adjoins the Townsend Industrial School and the Coles laboratories, where important parts of the high school work is done. It is large enough to provide for the growth of the school for many years. The plan of the building is such that it facilitates and simplifies school administration. It contains many important features that are lacking in the old Rogers—an assembly hall capable of seating 600, a large and well-equipped gymnasium, a lunch counter where the children may obtain suitable food without passing through the streets in stormy weather, a large and beautifully decorated library with ample provision for consulting books of reference, the most approved school furniture to be found in the market, and best of all a complete and efficient system of ventilation by which an adequate supply of pure air may be furnished to all parts of the building. A building so complete in all its parts and so well adapted to the purpose for which it was designed is of inestimable value to the department and to the city.

While many have helped in the making of the new high school, there are two whose work should receive special mention. Superintendent Lull, since he first assumed the management of the Newport schools, has constantly urged the necessity of a new high school building. His familiarity with the technique of high school construction, and his knowledge of many of the best and newest high schools in New England, entitle him to be considered an expert, and from the drawing of the plans to the completion of the building he has rendered most valuable aid to those in charge of its construction. Head Master Thompson, besides his general knowledge of school administration, has the most intimate knowledge of the special needs of our own high school, and both he and Mr. Lull have spent many hours inspecting the details of the work and helping by their valuable suggestions.

In November, when it became necessary to heat the new building, the City Council committee suggested that this be done by the Public School Committee, and after the heating apparatus had been tested and accepted by the City Council committee it was voted by them "That the Public School Committee be authorized to place an engineer in the new high school building." This was done and the heating of the building was commenced. It was necessary to select an engineer capable of running and caring for the complicated heating and ventilating plant. Mr. Samuel C. Bailey, a licensed engineer, was elected at a salary of $800. Mr. George H. Young, the efficient janitor of Rogers, was elected head janitor of the new building at a salary of $800, and it was voted to elect an assistant janitor at a salary of $400.

The Teachers' Retirement Fund has increased until it amounts to about $14,000, nearly one half of the amount required before the income can be used. During the past week a bazaar has been held in the new building, the use of which was allowed by the building committee of the City Council upon the guarantee by the School Committee to repair all damage that might be done to the building. Every teacher in the public schools assisted in the work of preparing for and conducting the bazaar, and, although the full account of receipts has not yet been rendered, it is expected that the fund will receive, as proceeds of the bazaar, an increment of about $3,000.

During the year several changes in the corps of teachers have been made. In June resignations were received from Mr. Russell of the high school, Miss Blaisdell, teacher of drawing, and from Miss E. H. Murphy, Miss L. C. Tew and Miss M. S. Clarke of the grades below the high school. To fill the vacancies caused by these resignations Miss Grace M. Counihan was elected commercial teacher in the high school, Miss Edith A. Barber of North Attleboro, who came exceptionally well recommended, was elected supervisor of drawing in all grades; Miss J. S. Perry was elected kindergartner in place of Miss Clarke, and the positions formerly held by Miss Murphey and Miss Tew were filled by the election of Miss S. A. Hallberg and Miss M. M. Frank, and all other vacancies by certain transfers which the committee deemed expedient. An additional teacher being needed in the high school, Miss Mae Stenhouse, a graduate of Brown University, was elected. In September Miss E. C. Morrison, one of the elected assistants, was temporarily placed in charge of the new seventh grade opened in Clarke school, and to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss M. B. Lawton, Miss M. E. Stevens was transferred from Carey I to Callender, grade III, and Miss M. A. Harrington was elected to Carey I.

At the end of the present year this committee will lose two valuable members in the retirement of Mrs. Sorchan and Mr. Bachelier. Mrs. Sorchan, much to the regret of all her associates in this committee, declined to accept a renomination, although it was unanimously offered her by both the Republican and Democratic city conventions. During the whole of her service she has shown in many ways a most active interest in our public schools, and has been most faithful in the performance of her duties, frequently coming from New York for the sole purpose of attending meetings of this committee. The Teachers' Retirement Fund owes much to her, and she has done by far the greater part of the work of decorating our schoolrooms. The beautiful pictures upon the walls of the library in the new high school are Mrs. Sorchan's latest gift. Mr. Bachelier, as chairman of the standing committee on buildings, has done a vast amount of work for this department, and in attending to the details of the work of caring for the school buildings has sacrificed much of his own time and convenience.

The evening schools have been opened in the Townsend Industrial School with a total registration of 225, distributed among the several classes as follows: Elementary 113, mechanical drawing 34, bookkeeping 20, freehand drawing 15, cooking 18, stenography and typewriting 25. In the elementary department 82 are doing the work of grades I, II and III.

This committee acknowledges the receipt of the additional appropriation of $1,050, which was asked of your honorable body in October. This amount was the difference between the sum asked for and the sum appropriated at the beginning of the year. The committee had been careful to use its appropriation judiciously, but found it impossible to conduct the schools through the year with less than the sum originally asked for, the amount needed being almost exactly what was estimated.

It is certain that the amount needed for the schools next year will be still greater. The running expenses of the new high school and of the three or four new schools that will probably be opened in the old high school building will compel the committee to ask for an increase in the appropriation for public schools.

Per the Public School Committee.
Christopher M. Barker,
Chairman.

MEMBERSHIP ENLARGED.

Baptist Young People's Societies Revise Their Constitution at the State Rally in Providence.

The principal business transacted at the state rally of the Baptist Young People's societies of Rhode Island, held in the vestry of the First Baptist Church, Providence, last evening, was in revision of the constitution, so that the membership of the state organization is now considerably enlarged.

Formerly the membership of the state society was limited to delegates from the different Young People's Societies in the Rhode Island Baptist churches, but now it may include all persons belonging to local societies of any Baptist church members (if there is no society connected with the church) who may attend any one of the regular meetings of the state organization. The date for the annual meeting was fixed for the first Wednesday in May, and it was also voted to increase the board of managers by the following officers: Transportation leader, agent for Service, the official publication; the chairman of the junior work committee, three additional members from each association and at least 10 other persons, elected at large. The above are to serve with the president, vice presidents, secretary and his assistant and the treasurer as the board of directors, and it was further voted that the directors be instructed to fill such vacancies as exist.

Previous to the business meeting there was a service of songs conducted by Rev. W. D. Fuller of East Greenwich, while Rev. H. W. Watjen of Warren read a selection from the Scriptures and made a prayer. Rev. W. T. Green of Natick, president of the state organization of Baptist Young People's societies, presided and introduced the speakers, the first person to address the meeting being Rev. J. H. Trenberth of East Greenwich, the recently appointed state colporter. His topic was: "The Inauguration of Colportage Wagon Work," and after stating the importance of such work for this state, Mr. Trenberth outlined his plans and spoke in detail of its purposes, saying that not the least important thing to be accomplished was the making of better citizens. The other speaker of the evening was Rev. C. H. Spaulding, D. D., of Boston, New England secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society, whose topic was, "Impulses that come to us and the carrying out of those impulses." This was followed by reports from the different Baptist Young People's societies in Rhode Island. Among those represented being the following: Second Baptist Church of East Providence, the Society of Lonsdale, the Cranston Street, Pearl Street and First Baptist churches in Providence, all personally represented, while State Secretary Wallace L. Pond read communications from the Fourth Baptist and Mount Pleasant Baptist churches in Providence.

PERSONALS.

....Letchworth Cox, who was a stoker on the first locomotive which ever got up steam in America, celebrated his ninety-first birthday at his home in Jamesburg, N. J., Christmas day.

....Lieutenant Von Frank, the oldest officer in the German army, recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday at Charlottenburg. He is in capital health and in full possession of his faculties. The lieutenant entered an infantry regiment at Posen in 1826.

....Dr. August Schmidt, a German physician of St. Louis, has given money for the erection of a church in that city, to which all denominations will be equally free to worship. There will be no sermon, no choir and no collection plate. An organ operated by electricity will furnish sacred music.

....Stephen Bates, a colored man, has been chief of police and city sheriff of Vergennes, Vt., for 26 consecutive years. He was born of free parents in Shirley, Va., nearly 64 years ago. Bates is a very intelligent man, entirely self-taught and occupies a high place in the estimation of the community where he lives.

....Two hundred and fifty deaf mutes attended a wedding Sunday in the upper church at St. Francis Xavier College, New York. Both young people were deaf mutes. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McCarthy of St. Francis Xavier Church, who has learned the sign language and has special power granted to him to perform such marriages.

....Japan's new ambassadress to the United States, Viscountess Aoki, is by birth a Prussian Baroness von Rahden, who married Viscount Aoki when he was the Mikado's minister at Berlin, where he spent many years. The family to which she belongs is an ancient one, allied to many of the great houses of the German aristocracy, and the announcement of her engagement nearly a quarter of a century ago created a great sensation, it being the first instance of a European woman of rank and title becoming the wife of a Japanese, or, for the matter of fact, of any Oriental.

THE LODGER'S TREAD
There was an old woman lived over us,
Who rocked and rocked all day;
And when she walked she made a fuss,
Like cattle on the highway.
One day our landlord said—quite sore—
We lived in the SECOND suite—
"I'm losing a tenant—the FIRST floor—
He cannot stand YOUR feet!"
MORAL.
All dread the dull, monotonous tread,
Of the thoughtless lodger overhead,
And nearly all,—by this 'tis shown,—
See others' faults,—but not their own.

THE LITTLE BAD BOY.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The bad little boy has gone to sleep.
One hand still shut in a stubborn fist,
As though in his dreams he would boldly keep
Himself in position to resist.
The bad little boy throughout the day
Has broken the home rules, one by one,
Has found for his feet the forbidden way,
Has left no disturbing thing undone.

The bad little boy—his face is calm,
Save that a faint smile is clinging there;
And now a forgiving, gentle palm
Smooths all of the tangles from his hair;
And now he is lifted into place
By arms unfelt in his slumbers deep;
And nothing but good shows in his face—
The bad little boy has gone to sleep.

O, all of his pranks and vexing ways
And all of his mischief is forgot
When down through the vale of dreams he strays;
And all the reproof that once was hot
Dies out with the sigh that swells the heart
When softly we bend over him and kiss
His cheek—and we swiftly thrust apart
His deeds of the day, when he sleeps like this.

So, may it not be, when you and I
As bad little boys lie down to sleep,
The angel that marks our deeds on high
May come on the wings of gentle sweep
And bend over us with a patient sigh,
When all of our blind rebellions cease—
And whisper to such as are you and I:
"Your day is forgiven your sleep in peace?"

TEN PAGES.

THE SANTO DOMINGO SCRAPE.

It begins to look as though our intervention in Santo Domingo has only had the effect of making the Morales government more corrupt and oppressive than ever. Through Wall American financiers secured the customs, and Morales, needing money at hand to pay his troops, was greatly embarrassed by the insurgents who were seeking to obtain power just as he had obtained it, and had just as much right to it. It was really a case of Hobson's choice for him. He could either let the insurgents have control of the government, but without any money with which to pay his troops, or he could keep them from power in spite of the fact that the people gave it to him.

It is reported that the modus vivendi recently arranged by Minister Dawson at Santo Domingo between that government and the foreign creditors, including the United States, has been disapproved by the Morales people to squeeze out the Americans, and Americans are now in control of the customs, and European capitalists are now pressing claims for damages to be referred to the Dominican but to the United States government, as the responsible party in the spoliations.

It will be remembered that the original protocol was signed January 21 of last year by a naval officer and was to go into effect in ten days, within which time it was impossible to secure its ratification by the Senate. Indignation in the Senate and in the country at the Department of State to say that no protocol was negotiated without consultation and that there was no intention of making any agreement apart from the Senate, but it was intended to reassure the insurgents believe them in order to deter them from [illegible]. This a regular treaty was [illegible] encountered a good deal of opposition in the Senate, and the Senate went into special session [illegible] it had closed its regular session without acting on it. Then the President negotiated a modus vivendi on the lines of the treaty, to which the Senate should act. With the expiration of Morales the modus vivendi has broken down.

NEW YORK'S VITAL STATISTICS.

Very much about New York must be done on a large scale in these days, and we become quite accustomed to the gigantic proportions which everything connected with that big city assumes. Curious in a while attention is called to something in connection with the metropolis which fairly startles us with its magnitude. For instance, the birth rate has increased so much there that during the past year there was an average of one birth every five minutes of the time. This shows that the population of the city is increasing very rapidly, even without the accretions from abroad which the emigration department. The total addition by birth for the year is what the enormous figure of nearly 100,000. This was an increase of more than 4,000 for the year, and is quite consistent with the rapid growth in population in the city.

It is interesting in connection with these figures circulating the birth record to note that the number of [illegible] marriages was also very large, reaching a total of more than 42,000, an increase of over 2,500 from the record of the previous year. This is a fair showing when it is remembered that very many of the new-comers from foreign shores arrive without their families, with the object of making new homes for them in the new land. The marriage record, therefore, points out the fact that many young men are coming to these shores and are finding wives among those who have preceded them from their own country or others, or occasionally from American families. The evidence is pleasing because the more new homes which are founded here the better it will be for the country and the sooner the new comers will be assimilated into the population.

Perhaps the most satisfactory, however, can be found in the record of deaths for the past year. These numbered more than 73,000, but were some 4,000 less than in the previous year. This is an excellent showing, indicating that the city, big as it is and abounding as it must be with influences which militate against long life and favor the spread of disease, is healthier than it was a year ago. This record marks a triumph for the health department of the city which is distinctly gratifying to the officials and to all thoughtful citizens. To reduce the death rate by improving the sanitary condition of a big city is a notable achievement.

The death rate is not high for a city of the size of New York, being but 18.25 per thousand of population, but it marks a decrease of 1.76 in a thousand from the figures of the year before. The statement is also made in the same connection that this death rate is the lowest with one exception on record, and the same excellent report is made in regard to contagious diseases, the record being lower than at any other time since the figures were kept. The officials of the big municipality, therefore, have reason to congratulate themselves upon the record that has been made the past year in the department of vital statistics. It shows that New York is a better city to live in and that the population is gaining rapidly by natural accretions as well as by additions from without.

VIOLENCE IN STRIKES.

No one suspects the more prominent and respectable labor leaders of countenancing resort to violence, nor are the greater part of the members of labor unions participants in acts of violence. But violence is so common a feature of all serious strikes that two courts have recently declared that there is no such thing as a peaceful strike, and when violence occurs the labor leaders and the masses of union men shield the criminals and exonerate their conduct, and thereby involve themselves in some measure of the culpability.

After months of effort to secure a jury, Chicago has succeeded in convicting one union of appropriating money to hire thugs to "do up" men who would not strike, the particular case of doing up being a murder. Strikes are almost continuous in Chicago and are especially savage, and there is a long list of killed and maimed as a result. Almost immediately after this conviction two men in Brooklyn who refused to strike were assassinated; they were called to the door and shot in cold blood. The officers of the law will derive no help from the members of the union in punishing the murderers, and yet nothing is more important for the interests of union labor in the long run than the elimination of lawlessness.

Immediately following the Brooklyn crime comes the killing by dynamite of the man who was governor of Idaho at the time of the Coeur d' Alene strikes and who declared martial law and put down violence with a strong hand. These strikes were attended with the most savage and bloody violence of any; they even went beyond the violence of the miners' strikes in Colorado two years ago. Miners and teamsters have been the most murderous in their strikes, and the teamsters have succeeded in obtaining from Governor Folk the pardon of a striker who deliberately shot a "scab," and in their annual convention last year they openly justified the shooting.

The statehood bill is to be the first to come before the House when it reassembles tomorrow. There is a growing feeling that the part of the bill which gives statehood to Oklahoma and Indian Territory will become a law, and that there is little chance for the Arizona-New Mexico proposition, except with a proviso that the people of Arizona shall approve the union before it comes effective.

The New York postoffice made a net profit to the government of $11,026,667.35 during the past year, an increase of $1,329,382.08, or more than 12 per cent, over the net profits of 1904. If all the postoffices of the country paid as well in proportion, there would be a large balance to the credit of the department, but a great number fall far below the point of paying expenses.

Though the insurance investigation in New York closed with the old year, the real end is not yet. The committee's report is still to come, and then perhaps there will be some action by the legislature. Certainly some changes ought to result from the investigation. It furnished material enough.

Does ex-Governor Odell of New York realize now that he is badly beaten, and might as well yield to the inevitable and resign the chairmanship of the Republican state committee?

The reports of the recent proceedings of the City Council have been "mighty interesting reading," as Horace Greeley used to say.

If one may be pardoned for speaking again about the pleasant weather, it is indeed a remarkable winter.

CAMERON OF LOCHIEL.

[Marquise de Fontenoy, in New York Tribune.]

Scotland has through the death of Cameron of Lochiel lost one of those grand old Highland chieftains who to a far greater degree than the peers of the northern kingdom constitute its true aristocracy and are regarded as such both at home and abroad. For Lochiel—these great chieftains are invariably known and addressed by their territorial title—was the twenty-fourth chief of the Clan Cameron, reciting the dignity in an unbroken line from ancestors who figure illustriously on almost every page of Scottish history. In Scotland, for instance, the Duke of Argyll is looked up to, not because he happens to be a duke and the brother-in-law of the king, as well as invested with all sorts of hereditary dignities, including that of the keeper of the great seal of Scotland, master of the royal household and admiral of the Western Isles, but because he is the chief of the clan of Campbell, and there is no exaggeration at all in the stories current at the time of the Duke's marriage to Princess Louise, when it was related that the Campbells, and, in fact, Scotchmen generally, considered that Queen Victoria's daughter was making a fine match for herself in becoming the wife of the future chief of all the Campbells.

Lochiel died, as he had lived, among his own people in his castle of Achnacarry, situated in the most picturesque spot of Lochaber, a few miles northeast of Fort William, and surrounded by extensive forests, stretching over hill and dale, well stocked with magnificent stags and huge herds of red deer. He was a brother-in-law of the Duke of Buccleuch, whose sister, Lady Margaret Scott, he married just 30 years ago, and he is succeeded as twenty-fifth chief by his eldest son, a gallant young soldier, who served in the Grenadier Guards throughout the Boer war, where he was badly wounded.

The late chief put in a few years in the diplomatic service in his younger days, and accompanied the late Lord Elgin's special mission to China and to Japan away back half a century ago. He likewise was for a time gentleman-in-waiting to Queen Victoria, and also member of Parliament. But as soon as possible he withdrew to Scotland to live among his people that sort of feudal existence which is seen at its very best nowhere but in Scotland, where the chieftain regards himself as responsible for the moral and material welfare of every member of his clan, all of whom, like their ancestors for hundreds of years past, consider themselves his retainers and as bound to him by not merely ties of loyalty, but also of bloody bearing as they do his name.

Those who wish for a description of the state which is maintained at Achnacarry Castle I would refer to the late Queen Victoria's "journal" of her "life in the Highlands," and in which she describes a visit which she paid to Lochiel in 1873, and of the profound impression it made upon her.

Among his ancestors was that Ewen Cameron of Lochiel, the hero of the battle of Killiecrankie, in 1689, who is said to have killed the last of the wolves that wandered at large in the British Isles, and who forms the subject of such eloquent praise in Macaulay's "History of England," where he is described as "the Ulysses of the Highlands." His grandson was that "Gentle Lochiel" who was so devoted an adherent of Prince Charles Stuart, the young pretender, to whom he declared "Come weal, come woe, I follow thee." He fell in the battle of Culloden, and his steel Highland pistols, mocked with his initials, figure in the Museum of Antiquities at Edinburgh. The late chieftain was his great-great-grandson.

CONTEST FOR PAYMASTER GENERAL IN THE NAVY.

Navy officers are mystified at a contest for paymaster general which has suddenly sprung up in Washington. Paymaster General H. T. R. Harris, the present incumbent, is on the retired list; but there are 18 months remaining of his term. There was a spirited contest over two years ago when he was nominated, one of the leading candidates having been Pay Director Charles Webster Littlefield. As about 15 candidates have already entered the field, it is thought Paymaster General Harris contemplates resigning from the office, although no confirmation of that is had. The only formal application filed is from Pay Inspector George W. Simpson, now the fleet paymaster for the North Atlantic squadron. Pay Inspector C. S. Williams, a native of New York, now on duty at the Boston yard, has friends working for his nomination. Others represented in the contest are Pay Director L. G. Boggs, S. H. Calhoun and J. M. Steel all of whom are now stationed at New York.

GENERAL BINGHAM'S CAREER.

General Theodore Alfred Bingham, the new police commissioner in New York, had the reputation when he was an engineer officer of being one of the most active men in that corps. He was born in Connecticut about 46 years ago and appointed to the Military Academy from New Hampshire September 1, 1875. Graduating in the high numbers, he was given one of the best assignments and chose the engineer corps, in which he had all of his active service. He was a second lieutenant in 1878, first lieutenant in 1881, a captain in 1889 and a major in 1898. He served from 1890 to 1895 as military attache, first to the American Legation at Berlin and then at Rome. In 1898 he went to Washington as superintendent of public buildings and grounds, with the rank of colonel, and he held that detail until April 30, 1903.

After being detached from Washington in 1903 General Bingham's next duty was the direction of all the great river and harbor works on the lower Great Lakes section. While engaged in the discharge of the duties of this office a derrick fell, crushing one of his legs, and it was only after long months of careful surgery that his life was saved, at the expense of an amputated limb. As a result he was retired July 11, 1901, but as a mark of appreciation of his preceding services, President Roosevelt the day before his retirement made him a brigadier general, and he consequently retired in that rank.

A CURE FOR DIPHTHERIA.

At the first indication of diphtheria in the throat of a child make the room close, take a tin cup and pour into it an equal quantity of pine tar and turpentine, then hold the cup over a fire so as to fill the room with the fumes. The patient in inhaling the fumes will cough and spit up the membranous matter, and the diphtheria may pass off. The fumes of the tar and turpentine lessen the trouble in the throat and thus afford the relief that has baffled the skill of physicians to give, but, above all, send for a doctor at once.

Dedication of New Colportage Wagon for Use by Baptists.

Providence Theatrical Partnership Dissolved—Pawtucket Priest Transferred.

A religious movement comparatively little known in Rhode Island was inaugurated yesterday, when, with services appropriate to such an occasion, the new colportage wagon, the gift of the American Baptist Publication Society, was formally dedicated at the First Baptist Church, Providence. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. C. H. Spaulding, field secretary for New England of the American Baptist Publication Society; Rev. Dr. L. L. Henson of the Crranston Street Baptist Church, Rev. W. T. Green of the Rhode Island Baptist Young People's Society, Rev. F. W. Hartwell, president of the Baptist Sunday School Convention of this state, and Rev. J. W. Trenberth, who is to be colporteur. Rev. Dr. G. W. Rigler presided. After the congregation had inspected the new wagon, which stood in the yard in the rear of the church with the horse, the gift of Rev. W. H. Bowen, attached, they gathered in the vestry, where the services were held. The wagon was presented, as stated, by the national society, and is to be supported partly by that organization, and partly by the Baptists of Rhode Island. It will be driven about the state, especially where there are few churches, and religious literature will be distributed and services held here and there by the colporteur. Field Secretary Stewart will have general charge of the work.

The theatrical partnership which has existed for several months past between Colonel Felix R. Wendelschaefer, A. A. Spitz and Max Nathanson of Providence came to an end yesterday afternoon, when the three partners took steps to bring about its dissolution. The action was taken by mutual consent, the partners agreeing to dissolve upon terms satisfactory to all. The partnership agreement involved the management of the Imperial and Park Theatres, and was entered into some time last spring. By the terms of the dissolution, Colonel Wendelschaefer's interest in those two houses passes, and he will devote his attention hereafter to the duties connected with the management of the Providence Opera House.

Rev. Joseph H. Roy, one of the best known French Canadian clergymen in the state and for the past seven years chaplain at the Home for the Aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor at Pawtucket, has been transferred to the rectorship of the Cathedral at Sherbrooke, Canada. Father Roy since coming to Pawtucket has won a large number of friends. The church of which he will be pastor is under Bishop Laroque and is about 80 miles from Montreal. As a peculiar coincidence he was ordained in the church of which he will be the pastor, 27 years ago. Father Roy is a linguist of no mean ability, speaking fluently besides his native tongue, English, Italian, German, Polish and Portuguese. He was born in Montreal in 1850 and pursued his early studies under the direction of the Sulpician Fathers, his theological studies being completed at the Grand Seminary, where he was ordained in 1878. For nearly 25 years he was a professor in Sherbrooke College and resigned, coming to Pawtucket. He will leave for his new pastorate January 14, solemnizing his last mass in Pawtucket on that morning. It is expected that his successor will be announced soon by Bishop Harkins.

The Washington Park Yacht Club held its annual meeting last evening in Providence, with an attendance of about 150 members. The election resulted in the choice of the following to serve for the coming year: President, Henry D. Glendenning; commodore, W. Louis Frost; vice commodore, Elgin R. Kerr; rear commodore, Manton D. Peck; secretary, Howard W. Randall; treasurer, Frank C. Thurston; directors, James R. Feeley, Harry M. Elwell, Arthur L. Almy, Samuel W. Gammons, Walter R. Richards. The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented, showing a total membership in the club of about 300, and a gratifying state of the finances. The present debt of the club is $879.01, which shows a reduction during the past year of $358.58. In spite of the fact that $592.90 has been expended in permanent improvements upon the property, aside from other current expenditures. The club has at the present time a net equity in the property of $1,315.71. After the business of the meeting was disposed of President-elect Glendenning made an interesting address to the members, and the most pleasing feature of the evening took place in the form of a presentation to retiring Commodore Daniel M. Patt of a life-size crayon portrait of himself, with a water color painting of his flagship, the launch Lydia A., beneath his likeness.

New Year's morning, while the bells tolled the departure of the old and ushered in the new year, a midnight marriage was being performed at the parsonage of the Laurel Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, Burrillville. The marriage ceremony took place immediately after the watch service and the persons were Miss Clara Edwina Odell and Edward Salisbury Reynolds. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Ela, pastor of the Laurel Hill Methodist Episcopal Church. It was understood that the ceremony would take place New Year's evening, but the bride and groom-elect decided to steal a march by changing the time of wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds drove to Woonsocket immediately after the ceremony, and before the news of the wedding spread through the villages were well started on their honeymoon.

The members and congregation of the Primitive Methodist Church of Cumberland are rejoicing over the fact that the indebtedness which has been hanging over the church for some time has been cleared. The offerings at the services last Sunday were the means of setting the minds of the members at rest in regard to what has been a burden to them, and they feel that encouragement, which comes from a sense of having worked and persisted in the object which they set out to attain some time ago. The burning and mortgage deed will take place January 19, when a social gathering will be held at the church.

SANITARY DAIRYING.

[Utica Globe.]

Sanitary dairying has become a practical hobby with Miss Margaret Astor Chanler of the famous New York house of Astor. At Barrytown, N. Y., she may be found three-fourths of the year, roaming over her broad acres, directing the farm work and supervising the strictly scientific methods that prevail in her splendid dairy, which has such an enviable reputation that milk from it sells readily for 12 cents a quart. The farm is called Rokeby and it is the old Astor homestead. The pigs are clean-skinned and dainty enough to be decorated with pink ribbons. The chickens are of the finest strain and the cows are gentle-mannered and of aristocratic lineage.

The farm is ideally located on the east bank of the Hudson, with a remarkably picturesque view of the river and the Catskills. On the estate of 130 acres are the stone and brick mansions; the stable, with eight carriages, the gardiner's cottage, the cow-barn, the dairy cottage, the creamery and the pig houses. Besides there are tennis courts, arbors, etc.

The farm, outside its dairy and piggery features, does not differ from others. The pride of the estate are the 32 Guernsey and Jersey cows and the 15 White Chester pigs. Seldom does one see such cattle. The herd is valued at $1,500 and from it the dairymen get 200 quarts of milk a day. About a year ago the sanitary dairying was introduced and the creamery was fitted with all the latest devices for refrigeration and sterilization. Floors, walls and ceiling were built of solid composition cement, and every bit of apparatus and fixture in the place is constructed of galvanized zinc, heavily plated with aluminum.

With the cow barn and piggery it is the same. The cow barn was built at great cost, after the most improved designs. It is not a large building—only one story high, 80 by 40 feet in dimension. Walls, ceiling and floors are of the same composition cement as the creamery. The stanchions are of steel piping, with aluminum plate. Everything in the barn is aluminum plated, even to the three-legged milking stools. The ceiling is dome shaped, being 20 feet from the floor to the top and eight feet from the floor on the sides. The walls are 10 inches thick, with a four-inch space between outer and inner wall, running entirely around the building. Outlets and inlets for this air space are provided by means of a large opening in the centre of the dome, and circular openings a foot in diameter along the side walls 15 feet apart.

These openings are cut into both the inside and outside walls, and open and shut automatically. They can be regulated so that all the outside openings will be closed in severe weather, or alternated with those on the inside, open and shut. This ventilation system is unique and effective.

The stable is drained by means of troughs in the cement floor behind each stall. These are flushed three times a day from taps in the walls. The cows are milked by Mr. House and his assistant twice a day—at 5:30 in the morning and at 4:30 in the evening—the milkers wearing white coats, trousers and gloves, which are laundered and sterilized after each milking.

Milk is drawn into thoroughly sterilized, galvanized iron, aluminum-plated pails, and carefully removed to the creamery, where it is poured into sterilized glass bottles, closed with caps bearing the certification of the milk commission, and sealed with a seal bearing the farm stamp. The bottles are then placed in a galvanized iron, aluminum-plated cooler to await shipment in New York city, where they are sold at 12 cents a quart. The cows, too, are washed and scrubbed every day as carefully as the fashionable babies who partake of their milk, and are fed with the same regularity and care three times each day. Directly after milking and at noon they receive their eight quarts of gluten meal and wheat bran, which is selected and prepared with care.

BRIGHTMAN VS. WARD.

Evidence in the Suit Over the Insurance Business.

Testimony Conflicting and the Legal Phases of the Question Puzzling.

The superior court sat today, and had a full session, Judge Baker presided. The larger courtroom was used—suns carpet—and the resplendent new chairs, etc., showed how much new cushions are needed on the benches and how the mahogany work should be allowed to show for its full value.

Two cases of Benjamin Hall vs. Newport & Providence Railway Company were continued and assigned to the motion day in February.

In Honjour vs. Christman an order to take a deposition in New York was entered by consent.

The case of John Vanderpool vs. Horace B. Gilmore, recently entered, is entered settled. Messrs. Brown and Sheffield were the counsel.

In W. Scott Wells vs. Ephraim B. Sisson, Colonel Sheffield suggested the death of defendant. The case was continued. Mr. Brown is counsel for the other side.

In J. B. Colt Company vs. Reagan, a transcript of the record, etc., is to be filed for use in further proceedings. The court called the attention of counsel to the necessity of applying for leave to file by a day set by the court, in such cases.

From a consultation of counsel it appeared that the Wells house (on Victoria avenue) is moving. Court proceedings were not stopped, but counsel did not seem over-exacting as to technicalities in regard to the record which has been made by the stenographer. No action was taken.

Mr. Kechne was given leave to withdraw a bill of sale in William J. Dunn vs. John J. Corcoran.

In Brightman vs. Delog papers are to be filed by next Saturday, so that there may be a hearing the following Saturday.

Then the hearing of the day, Brightman vs. Ward, was taken up. Colonel Sheffield and Mr. Hervey appeared for plaintiff and Mr. Burdick for defendant. It is a full equity suit, in which it is alleged that on July 1, 1904, and long before, defendant was in the real estate and insurance business; that on that date he entered into a contract (for which he received $5,000) to transfer his business, office furniture, etc., to Mr. Brightman, agreeing to guard the secrets of the business, to give his whole time and he just and faithful to Mr. Brightman; but that he has not done this, but has in some capacity entered the employ of Henry Bull, Jr., has taken a list of the expirations of policies and obtained renewals of them, and has allowed others to think him still in Mr. Brightman's employ. An accounting is asked and payment of all sums that may be due to Mr. Brightman, and an injunction from interfering with the latter's business.

Mr. Ward's answer denies that he is employed by Mr. Bull in any capacity; says he has not violated his contract or any trust or interfered with Mr. Brightman's business or made a list of expirations of policies, or allowed others to think him still in Mr. Brightman's employ.

Several business men, desiring to get away, were called, out of order, to the stand.

Henry W. Clarke was the first witness. In July, 1905, he took a policy of insurance on his house, to run to 1910. It was a renewal, made with Mr. Ward, at the latter's suggestion, he saying he was going into business for himself. Mr. Ward hailed witness, as witness was going by. Witness never knew anything about Mr. Brightman. Had insured with Mr. Ward for some years. Would not have renewed with Mr. Ward if he had known he had sold out. Mr. Brightman, later, wanted to renew the insurance, but it was too late, the policy from Mr. Ward having been received.

J. Stacy Brown had insurance (or Brown & Howard had, and witness continued it) with Mr. Ward. One policy expired July 18, and Mr. Ward met witness on the street and spoke about it. Mr. Ward spoke about some stone for a colored woman from whom he collected rent. Witness agreed to furnish stone, the price to be credited on the insurance. Mr. Ward said he was in business for himself, and was through with Mr. Brightman. Witness renewed with Brightman.

Benjamin F. Downing, 3d., testified that he gave to Mr. Ward, August 5, a renewal of a policy given to Mr. Brightman. Mr. Ward came in and said he had gone into business for himself and asked for insurance. Never had insurance with Mr. Brightman before he bought out Mr. Ward. Thinks Mr. Ward's words were that there was a policy coming due. Witness has a number of policies; could not say when this one expired.

John R. Ward testified that he has insurance on a house on John street. It expired last August—a five-year policy. It was originally taken with Mr. Ward. Met Mr. Ward and asked him about it. Always insured with him, and always intend to. Is related to Mr. Ward.

William B. Franklin had insurance on property at the corner of Frank and Spring streets. Has a renewal dated last July. Used to insure with Davis & Ward. Mr. Ward came and notified witness that the policy would expire and wanted witness to insure with him. Said he had been with Mr. Brightman and had been thrown out of employment. Afterwards, Mr. Brightman solicited the insurance.

James T. Wright, a trustee of the Odd Fellows building, and treasurer, testified that two policies on that property expired last year. Mr. Ward approached witness and wanted to renew the insurance, saying he was going into business for himself. The renewal was made with Mr. Ward.

John H. Laferty, formerly a trustee of the Odd Fellows, testified. He had conversation about renewal with Mr. Ward, on the floor of the lodge. The lodge voted to place this with Mr. Ward. Witness opposed it, because Mr. Ward was no longer with Mr. Brightman. There was a competition between Brightman and Ward for the renewal.

John M. Taylor, one of the executive board of the Newport Convention, testified about insurance on church property in Jamestown. A renewal was made with Mr. Ward, who said the policy was to expire and wanted a renewal. Witness conferred with Dr. Gillilat, who asked if Mr. Ward had always had it, and being told "yes," said let him have it. Mr. Ward said he had got through with Mr. Brightman.

Mr. Brightman then testified. He has been about four years in the real estate and insurance business. Mr. Ward had a similar business, and made a contract with witness, who paid him $5,000. The contract and receipts for the money were put in as evidence. The agencies of about a dozen companies were transferred to witness by Mr. Ward. Notices of expiration are sent to policy holders, and probably nineteen-twentieths of them renew. The companies pay a commission on premiums paid by insurers.

Knowledge of the times of expiration is the most valuable asset. Mr. Burdick asked if the agencies of the companies were not the most valuable asset. Witness was not sure which was. He had been trying to get the agencies of large companies, and they are valuable. He got these from Mr. Ward. Some policies of Mr. Ward were on stocks of liquors, and witness would not take this business. He did not solicit any business from liquor dealers, but if one wanted to insure a building witness did it. Does not think he lost much business by refusing to insure stocks of liquors.

Mr. Burdick asked if the agent, his popularity, his activity, were important factors. Witness said yes. Most policies are renewed in the same companies. Witness thought the business would follow the agency, even when that was sold to another—if people knew of the sale. Witness certainly has not told or instructed his clerks to tell anybody calling for Mr. Ward that Mr. Ward was out but would be in soon. Mr. Clarke's business was a part of what witness bought of Mr. Ward.

To the court witness said a list of expirations is kept. It is made for convenience, from the books that show all policies, their amounts, etc. The court thought there might be a question on a renewal of a yearly policy.

Henry Bull, Jr., next testified. He has an insurance business near where Mr. Ward used to be. Witness may have had some conversation with Mr. Ward while he was still with Mr. Brightman. A policy written by witness June 15, 1905, was shown, and it appeared that Mr. Ward received the premium as agent. It was done at Mr. Ward's request. Other policies have been so written for Mr. Ward, who acts simply as a broker. There is no understanding that Mr. Ward shall insure only in witness's companies. Mr. Ward is simply a tenant of witness, hiring a store. The broker gets ten per cent and the agent five per cent. Witness receives business in this way from most other agents in town, who have insurance which they can't otherwise place.

Witness went into business in 1863; represents some 40 companies. Has bought out agencies. When one buys a business he gets the companies and such business as he can retain. He can't expect to retain it all. He buys also the expiration list, with only a chance of getting the renewals. The personality of the agent and the companies represented are strong factors. Mr. Ward has not entered into witness's employ—not at all.

Asked as to the business of the late Anthony S. Sherman, witness said he should think possibly he had been able to renew say 50 per cent of the policies. Some yearly policies are kept running until ordered stopped. Other policy holders are notified. It is worth something to know the time of expiration. Witness has conducted his insurance business largely through others. The policies written for previous witness's at Mr. Ward's instance were written by Mr. Bull's agency.

Miss Anna Catherine Irwin, bookkeeper for Mr. Brightman, testified. She found previous witnesses' policies recorded on Mr. Brightman's book, and they were notified. Mr. Burdick wanted a list of policies in force in 1904. Colonel Sheffield objected to furnishing this information; they were trying to stop Mr. Ward from using what knowledge he already had. There was a long tangle about the record as to policies being in existence when Mr. Ward sold out. The first one called for by Mr. Burdick (Mr. Clarke's) witness said was not in the book she had. There seemed to be some misunderstanding, for finally, when hope seemed about lost and a recess was looming up, witness remarked, "Here's Mr. Clarke's policy," marked "Here's Mr. Clarke's policy." The record in the book was shown. The record in the book was passed. Others were and the crisis was passed. Others were called for and shown, one by one, on the record, one called for not appearing.

Here plaintiff rested.

Mr. Burdick was still at a loss to know just where the case stood. There is a large number of witnesses who is a large number of witnesses who had employed Mr. Ward for years, and would testify that they would not employ Mr. Brightman under any circumstances. Mr. Ward is willing to settle for any policy on which he ought to settle, but ought not to pay anything on policies which came unsolicited. One witness, Mr. Clarke, says he would not have renewed with Mr. Ward if it had been known Mr. Ward was not with Mr. Brightman.

The court said the transfer to Mr. Brightman was only so far as Mr. Ward was able to control it. If A., B. and C. refused, of their own accord, to deal with Mr. Brightman, Mr. Ward is not precluded from being in the business.

The case seemed to be a sort of puzzle all around. Mr. Burdick did not seem to care to argue on the facts, and the reply was for Colonel Sheffield, who desired to say something and who desired to say something and hoped Mr. Burdick would. Mr. Burdick obligingly consented to say a few words. He said the court must find that Mr. Ward is not in the employ of Mr. Bull. Mr. Clarke's is the only policy Mr. Ward could be held for. (The court referred to Mr. Franklin's evidence as to his policy.) There is no evidence that Mr. Ward took a list of expirations of policies, and as to the allegation of allowing it to be believed that he was still in the employ of Mr. Brightman, the evidence shows the opposite.

Colonel Sheffield wished he could comment on the question whether or not Mr. Ward is employed by Mr. Bull. He thought it was the fact. Perhaps it is an immaterial issue. Mr. Ward's contract was for one year, and terminated July 1, 1905. June 15 Mr. Ward went to Mr. Bull and had a policy written. Mr. Ward had no right to use the knowledge he secured in Mr. Brightman's office. He knew Mr. Brightman's custom to notify holders of expiring policies shortly before they expired, and went to Mr. Clarke earlier than this, and while still in Mr. Brightman's employ. There was active solicitation for renewal of the Odd Fellows' policy. Mr. Ward said to Mr. Downing: "You have a policy about to expire." That knowledge Mr. Ward had agreed not to divulge. It was a breach of confidence. It is too much to expect that he could remember these expirations; he must have taken a list, and he was intending to turn the business over to Mr. Bull.

Courts of equity delight to do justice in such cases. Perhaps the judge might should be that Mr. Ward did not know it to be understood that he was still in Mr. Brightman's employ. Colonel Sheffield thought Mr. Ward had no right to write renewals of policies which were in Mr. Brightman's office and that solicitation or using the knowledge obtained from Mr. Brightman's business is a breach of trust.

The court said it might say that Mr. Ward has interfered with Mr. Brightman's business, and in one sense the good will. That would be done by again going into business for himself. When the list of expirations of policies was sold it meant something—not that a man could turn around and go to soliciting these people. The court was willing to consider authorities. He would like to have the assistance of counsel who had studied into the matter. It was agreed that briefs should be filed by January 20.

About 1:30 P. M. the court rose.

FOR A NEW CHARTER.

Sketch Presented Before the Citizens' Municipal Association.

Provides That General Powers Shall be Vested in a Citizens' Representative Meeting.

The general committee appointed by the Citizens' Municipal Association to prepare a new charter for Newport met again last evening. Rear Admiral Chadwick presented a sketch of a charter based on the charter of Brookline, Mass., and outlined by Mr. Chandler in his recent remarks before the committee. The suggested charter provides that the general powers of the city shall be vested in a meeting of not over 200 persons, being electors enabled under the constitution of the state to vote on any proposition to impose a tax, this meeting to be called the citizens' representative meeting; together with a mayor, aldermen, city clerk, city treasurer, as additional and ex-officio members; and also, as additional members, one to be selected annually from among its own members, respectively, by each of the following boards, the assessors, the school committee and the park commission.

The members of this citizens' representative meeting shall, with the exception of the ex-officio and additional members named, be selected, 30 from each of the now existing five wards, by electors enabled by the constitution to vote on any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of city funds. The members of this citizens' representative meeting are to be elected, one third in each year.

Nominations of candidates for the citizens' representative meeting shall be signed by not less than ten voters of the ward in which the candidates reside, and no nomination paper shall be valid in respect to any candidate whose written acceptance is not thereon.

Any vacancy in the full number of representatives from any ward may be filled for the unexpired term of the year and until the next city election by representatives from that ward.

The laws at present in force in the state as to the calling, warning, holding and method of conducting business at financial town meetings, except where otherwise provided, shall apply to the representative meeting.

The representative meeting shall elect a moderator from among its own elected members; one half of all the members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. All meetings are to be held with open doors and subject to such conditions as may be adopted. Any elector of the city may speak but not vote at the meeting. The members shall receive no compensation as members of the meeting.

The executive powers of the city shall be vested in a mayor, five aldermen, one from each ward, to be elected as now, all of whom shall be ex-officio additional members of the representative meeting. The assessors of taxes, tax collector, city solicitor, street commissioner, city engineer, and all other city officials now elected by the present City Council, shall be elected by the representative meeting by ballot.

The moderator of the representative meeting shall, a month before the city election, appoint, from among the members who are to continue as such for the ensuing year, a committee of 24 to consider the city budget and make report thereon at the first meeting in the new fiscal year. The report of this committee is to be printed and distributed to every householder a week before the meeting of the citizens' representative meeting, in order that all may have full knowledge of the same.

Any vote of the representative meeting in favor of any proposition requiring the expenditure of a certain sum of money, except for refunding, replacing or paying any portion of the city's indebtedness or for borrowing money in anticipation of taxes, shall not become operative until after a period of seven days from the passage of the vote. If within this period a petition is addressed to and filed with the city clerk, signed by no less than 100 voters, each of at least four wards to be represented by not less than ten voters, asking that the question be submitted to the qualified electors at large, such question, within 14 days, shall be so submitted.

The final paragraph of the sketch provides that the city election shall be held the first Monday in June, the new government and the fiscal year to begin the first Monday of July.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Herbert L. Dyer, J. Joseph M. Martin, John B. Donnelly and John P. Casey was appointed to visit Brookline, to examine into the system of bookkeeping and auditing and generally into the administration of affairs under a charter similar to that in force in that place.

Another committee, consisting of Messrs. John C. Burke, J. Stacy Brown, French E. Chadwick, Clark Burdick, Herbert L. Dyer, Frank P. Nolan, William P. Sheffield, Jr., J. Joseph M. Martin and William Riggs Harvey, was appointed to take up the matter of a charter, using Admiral Chadwick's sketch as a basis, and to report the results of their work to the general committee.

INSTALLATION AND PRESENTATION.

Last night the officers-elect of Bye-the-Sea Aerie of Eagles were installed in office and a past worthy president's jewel was presented to Charles H. Sullivan, the first to fill that position in the order. A collation was served and there was a large attendance. The members are making arrangements for the proper care of the delegates to the annual meeting of the New England League of Eagles, which will take place here Monday next. Governor Utter, Mayor Cottrell and city officials have been invited to attend.

TROOPS ATTACK PUERTO PLATA

o'clock in the evening, when the besieging force retired. A number of men were killed or wounded on both sides in the engagement, during which bayonets and swords were principally used. The forces of General Rodriguez, which are massed outside Puerto Plata, were when these advices were forwarded preparing for another attack on the place.

A portion of the population of Puerto Plata has declared in favor of Morales shouting from the windows of their houses at the troops of General Caceres, the temporary president of Santo Domingo. These troops were experiencing difficulty in defending themselves, as they were unable to locate the persons firing on them.

A messenger who arrived here from Monte Cristi today brought the news that General Demetrio Rodriguez has announced that if his attack on Puerto Plata is successful he will proclaim himself a candidate for the presidency of Santo Domingo.

Puerto Plata is a seaport and a cable station on the northern coast of Santo Domingo. It is of considerable commercial importance and exports tobacco, dye woods and coffee. The population numbers about 4,500.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. M. A. McCormick is in Boston to purchase furniture for the Perry House.

—The carpenters have begun work on the new building for the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society.

—Tug Roger Williams has been doing some harbor work while the Sollitor is laid up for an overhauling.

—Miss Mae G. Curley and Miss Gertrude Leary Sullivan have returned home, after spending the holidays in Washington.

—D. S. F. Adams, J. P. Riley and J. A. Leavitt of New York; E. Dugan of Hartford and R. F. Hiner of Easton are registered at the Perry House.

—The wind has shifted to the northeast and the sea has so moderated that the sailing craft in the harbor have proceeded.

—The Critic for January has as its frontispiece a picture in color of Edith Wharton (Mrs. E. R. Wharton), from a sketch from life by Kate Rogers Nowell.

—Colonel and Mrs. Harold A. Peckham of this city assisted in the reception given by Governor Utter at the State House in Providence last evening.

—Monday evening a surprise party was given in honor of Miss Nora Coffey at her home on Homer street. After supper was served there were dancing games and singing.

—Misses Ethel and Alma Brooker and Mae Luth of Brooklyn, who have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. William Hansen, during the holidays, have returned home.

—It seems rather out of season to speak of lawn tennis, but the new dirt courts at the Casino have been covered with fine crushed stone, in preparation for next season.

—The fishing off Block Island seems to be rather poor, judging by the fish that come from the island. Haddock seem to be most plentiful now, and they are found off Nantucket.

—United States Hotel arrivals include L. B. Koopman of Providence, H. Miller of New York, H. Miller, H. M. Young and J. Gungeon of Boston and E. J. Hayes of Shepard's pictures.

—Yesterday barge Eagle finished discharging for the same firm, changing coal for Pinniger & Manchester, and today barge Hunter before Barge Virginian is discharging for E. S. Peckham.

—Fishing schooner M. S. Ayre went off the marine railway this afternoon and fishing yawl Theresa, Captain Sanchey, which dropped her iron keel last fall, was hauled out to have a new iron keel attached. She has managed to get along without that outside weight, but may need it in some of the winter blows.

—This was the regular day for the pay car of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road to arrive, and it came on time. Several of the men at the repair shop were laid off at the beginning of the year. It had been expected that additional men would be put on. The pay car, however, left a good deal of money here, even if those additional men did not go to work. The work must be done and they will get the pay when it is done.

—A surprise party was given Mr. Charles W. Oxx, Jr., at his home on Marchant street, Monday evening, it being his birthday. His guests came well prepared for the occasion. Mr. Alfred Norbury gave several selections on the violin and harmonica, and the Agony Quartet sang several songs. A buffet supper was served about midnight and dancing was in order until the early morning hours. Mr. and Mrs. Oxx assisted in entertaining the guests.

VISITORS OUTCLASSED.

St. Joseph Holy Name Team Defeats Naval Reserves of New Bedford in One-Sided Game.

The St. Joseph Holy Name basket ball team defeated the team of Company G, Naval Reserves, of New Bedford, 61 to 16, last night at Hazard hall. It looks one sided, and the play in the second half was one sided. In the first half the visitors did very well. They were heavier-looking and more experienced players, and their passing was better than that of the locals. They are evidently accustomed to playing at home with a referee who gives them everything they ask. In this half the longer-legged Holy Name players excelled in activity and used their superior reach effectively, and led both in scoring and in shots at the basket. The backs saw to it that the back field was not entirely deserted, as it has been at times in the past, and the visitors did not have many easy shots. The score at the call of time was 24 to 8 in favor of the local players.

The time of the second half was cut to 15 minutes, to allow the visitors to catch the train. Despite this cut, the home players rolled up 19 points, making 20 baskets. The scoring began right at the start, the Holy Name players caging four baskets in the first five shots. Later they scored nine baskets in 15 consecutive shots. This is very rapid work and shows that the visitors were completely outclassed. The superior condition of the younger Holy Name players stood out prominently in this half. They had the visitors played around to a standstill. The attendance was quite large and enthusiastic, and many girls sat in the bleachers, preferring it to the stage seats. The line-up:

AN IMPROVED COURTROOM.

Many Changes for the Convenience of Judge and Jury.

Extracts from the Colonial Records Concerning the Erection of the Building.

This is the time when everybody is supposed to have a tendency to turn over a new leaf, and even the new law, calling for a sitting of the superior court on the first Monday in January was turned over, as it was a legal holiday and the court did not sit. And not even yesterday did it sit. Of course, in old Newport at least, it seems as if the inauguration of the state government anywhere but here is only a sort of initiation of the real thing, but it is said that elsewhere there has come a feeling of regret at the changes, but Newport was represented at the function and as the judges are supposed to lend the dignity of their presence. In these days, the superior court did not meet here Tuesday, one or two dropped in during the morning, for nobody knows when the court may be in session nowadays; but these, having received the courtesies of the sheriff's office, departed in force without the expressed "leave of the court first had and obtained," as the old form of pleading used to put it.

The court room, too, is turning over a new leaf and was all in confusion. High in mid-air, perched on the judge's bench, were the officials' chairs. The carpet was off the floor. The radiators and piping shone in new gilding, and back of all a large calendar for 1906 hung where all could read it. The large table had a fresh green cover and a new coat of varnish, and a rumor is even heard that electric lights are to be introduced.

There are also more substantial changes, although at first sight even an old comer might not notice them. The judge's platform has been cut off so that he longer can a dejected and bewildered witness walk up to the bench instead of into the witness stand, for the stairs near the witness stand are a thing of the past and the rail now comes close to the judge's desk. Benches have been sawed off to make room for the large new chairs for the jury, and the table in front of the jury has been moved so that it will still begin in front of the foreman's seat. The flooring, too, under the jurors' seats has been widened, as the large chairs called for more room than way too. But it all has been done in such a way as not to be particularly noticeable. Some little time ago "automatic" ventilators were put in the windows, and so it is not necessary to let in so many Arctic cyclones as came in the past, when the windows were opened so mercilessly on those who had to sit and take it, even risking severe colds thereby.

It is possible that the room may not be in order for the court's next sitting, and the old senate chamber may be used. No more ideal place for a "court in chambers" could be found. It would be far less noisy than the larger courtroom, and while Janitor Brooks says the heat is not enough for cold days probably it would be much better than the Arctic currents of the big room. The settees formerly used for the jury are now in the senate chamber and look well, and are without very comfortable to sit on.

The mention in the News of swinging chairs for the jurors might have been thought to have been followed, for 12 good-looking old oak armchairs, with all sorts of turning and tilting devices, have arrived. It said, however, that it was thought best not to have this sort for the moment, and the latest arrivals are for the use of counsel and reporters, who write at the big table in the centre of the big courtroom.

The reporters had a chance to improve their minds, as there was nothing else to take their attention. One who had observed how they do in Massachusetts remarked that he thought Rhode Island far behind in its method of swearing witnesses separately and letting them hear what each other says instead of swearing them in a group and then sending them out until each is called to the stand. The senate chamber would make an excellent place for a witness room if such a plan were in effect here.

In the sheriff's office a new addition to the art shown on the walls is of special interest. It is a prettily framed photograph and a good one of Sheriff Anthony, and there is a record that goes with the frame, showing that it is made from wood used in the finish of the pentecostal of the chamber when building in seventeen hundred and something. The wood is pretty mahogany and it is said that the top of the benches are all made of mahogany. This is a revelation to most folks, and it is a woeful pity that it has been covered so many years under varnish so thick that nobody would guess what it really is. In the midst of the other improvements it would be a great one if the original wood might be allowed to show in its natural beauty.

The sheriff's record on the frame indeed naturally call attention to many worthwhile details regarding the building of the court house, and the reading of the complete of Deputy Clerk Sydney H. Harvey the votes of the General Assembly authorizing the building were consulted. They are found in some of the Colonial Records, volume four of the Colonial Records, which contain much very entertaining reading and well two or three mentions of other Newport matters also here occur. A not exhaustive search did not discover any mention of the Colony House for a considerable number of years after these votes.

Proceedings of the General Assembly, held for the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations at Warwick the third Tuesday in February 1728-9.

The Hon. Daniel Abbott, Deputy Governor.

With the assistants and deputies from the several towns.

Then follow lists of men admitted to the "freemen of this colony."

A resolution to pay £41. 15s. 3d for "necessaries found and work done to the county house in King's County, follows, and then comes

"An Act for the building of a new colony house." This provided for "a new colony house to be built and made of brick, at Newport, where the old one now stands, consisting of eighty feet in length, and forty in breadth and thirty feet stud; the length whereof to stand near or quite north and south."

It is then provided that Peter Bours, Esq., Mr. Ezekiel Sanford, Mr. George Gaulding and Mr. George Wanton be appointed a committee "to procure materials, and carry on the building of said house as soon as conveniently may be, and draw out of the general treasury for that purpose £4,000 as soon as the same shall be wanted; which committee shall render an account unto his honor, the Governor, John Chipman, William Ellery, and Jos. Whipple, Esqs., how, and after what manner the said £4,000 is expended and laid out; and have a certificate from them that they have so accounted; and upon presenting the same to the general treasurer, they and the are empowered to draw out other sums of pounds, and account for the same in manner as aforesaid, before mentioned, until said house is finished."

And that "Moses Lyndon attend upon the last mentioned committee as a clerk, in order to receive the accounts of the first mentioned committee, before they are examined, and enter them in a book to be kept for that purpose, and present it to the General Assembly when and so often as called for; and that the first mentioned committee dispose of the old colony house, at a public vendue to the highest bidder, for the use of the said colony."

At the session held on the first Wednesday of May, 1730, it was "voted and resolved, that that part of the act for building a new colony house, which directs the length thereof to be north and south be repealed; and that the length of said house be put east and west."

At this session it was also voted that the committee appointed to erect additions to the pest house, at Coaster's Harbor, be empowered to draw out of the general treasury the sum of £50.

At the session of the General Assembly held at Portsmouth, the tenth day of July, 1730, it appears that "Upon the petition of sundry of the inhabitants of the town of Newport, setting forth that the new colony house to be built would look more commodious &c., if the length thereof should be set north and south, and praying that the present situation might be altered," it was "voted and ordered, that the late act passed for setting the length of the colony house east and west be repealed, and that the length thereof be built north and south; and that a cellar be put under the same."

At this session it was voted that the town of Newport be "accommodated" with the sum of £500, from the general treasury, towards paying the extraordinary charge accrued "upon the means used to prevent the spreading of the small pox."

Also, that Messrs. William Ellery, Godfrey Malbone and George Wanton be a committee to procure a suitable boat to be built for Fort George, the charge to be paid out of the general treasury and that they dispose of the old boat to the best advantage.

Also, the account of Lawrence Langworthy for £183 18s. 6d. for powder for Fort George, was ordered paid.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hollis H. Hunnewell are visiting in Albany.

—Mr. and Mrs. Clayton G. Dixon (Miss Willoughby) have sailed for Europe.

—Miss Lena Priester has gone to Stapleton, Staten Island, to visit relatives.

Rev. Father Barclay of Providence was guest of Mr. Patrick Nolan yesterday.

—Mr. James A. Swan has returned from Schenectady, N. Y., where he was visiting.

—Dr. Bull's horses and carriages went to New York last night, and Dr. Bull also went on.

—Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rooney are in New York, visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Andrain.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Webster closed "Pen Craig" today for "the season" and went to New York.

—A large number of Red Men are planning to make the trip to Wickford to visit Ninigret Tribe, next Tuesday evening.

—Mr. E. C. Gunther has returned from a month's visit in New York. His family will remain in New York all winter.

—Mrs. W. Butler Duncan is guest of her sister, Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow, at the Cleveland cottage, Catherine street.

Mrs. Samuel Williamson, who has spent many summers here, where she is well known, died at her home in Lonsdale Sunday.

—Mr. William S. O'Brien, a former landlord of the Perry House, has taken another lease of the Mizzen Top Hotel at Rawlings, N. Y.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer sailed yesterday for Europe to spend the remainder of the winter and the spring in Rome.

—Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Lawrence will give a dance for their daughter, Miss Katherine Lawrence, at Sherry's, New York, Tuesday evening, January 23.

—Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney will give a dance for her sister-in-law, Miss Dorothy Whitney, during the last week in January, at her residence in New York.

—Captain Dwight E. Aultmann, artillery corps, is transferred from the command of the Seventy-ninth company, coast artillery, at Fort Adams, to the Sixty-seventh company, at the Presidio, San Francisco, Cal.

—The Haymakers have arranged to give a euchre for the benefit of Mr. T. F. Simpson, who while improving and able to stand is still suffering from the effects from his fall from the Newport Realty building last August.

—The lanterns on Long wharf seem to be suffering more than those on other streets, except the road to Fort Adams, and the breaking makes considerable loss to the company which cares for them.

—Mr. John G. Hecksher, a former cottager and the father of Mrs. McClellan, wife of the mayor of New York, and of Mrs. Everett J. Whitthrop, Jr., who has been at the Muenchinger-King cottage for several days, has returned to New York.

—Mr. F. G. Copeland, government blacksmith of the engineer department at Fort Adams, has gone to New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, where his wife and daughter have been six months. Mr. Copeland will return with his family early next month.

—Strenuous effort is being made to complete the training ring for Mr. Reginald C. Vanderbilt at Sandy Point Farm. The carpenters are working well into the evening, and it is now hoped to have the mammoth structure ready for use at an early date.

—Captain George Chase of steamer Providence, who is at home suffering from an injured foot and has been in a serious condition, is improving. Captain Collins is supplying his place on the Providence. Captain Williamson of the Plymouth is on his vacation and his place is being filled by Captain Rowland.

—The wedding of Miss Alice W. Delafontaine, daughter of Albert D. Delafontaine, and August Belmont, Jr., will take place Thursday afternoon, January 25, at the Church of the Ascension, New York. The marriage had been postponed because of the illness of the bridegroom's father.

—There is evidently a great rush of travel on the Fall River line boats since the fare went down. Nightly the manifest of passengers runs from 1,200 to 1,500 and cots are spread everywhere. There is some talk of putting the Priscilla in commission. Instead of the Plymouth, on account of her greater accommodations.

—A special session of the probate court was held yesterday afternoon to consider the children living on Long wharf whose condition was called to the attention of the Board of Health by Tenant Officer Topham some days ago. The Board of Health reported a material improvement in conditions and the case was continued, to give opportunity for full improvement, which would make action by the court unnecessary.

"EMOTIONALISM."

Scholarly Paper on the Subject Read Before the Unity Club by Rev. Charles A. Stonehouse.

At the Unity Club last night before a good-sized audience Rev. Charles A. Stonehouse lectured on "Emotionalism," a subject in which he is much interested and which is of great importance to every thoughtful mind. In speaking, Mr. Stonehouse spoke of the effect of poetry upon the emotions among all people. Emotion, which is wonderfully placed in human life, expresses itself in physical and mental form. The essential element of emotion is self-control. Mental culture demands self control, which indicates not absence of emotion, but the presence of emotion under restraint. The highly intellectual mind needs emotion, needs the influence of ideals that feed. Emotion should not be suppressed, and on the other hand should not lose its essential element of self-control. The desires to have the emotions played upon and to be amused are characteristic of our day. Mr. Stonehouse spoke of the commons amount of interest lost in mankind and of the need of a higher standard for the stage and the novel, the tendency being toward low moral ideals and commercialism.

Having considered the individual and his danger, the speaker took up the individual in groups, speaking of the composite mind, which is moved by common impulses and emotions, even if there is much difference in the mental and physical characters of the individuals. A member of a group is the product of environment, being dependent upon the other members. After the individual is separated from the composite mind, he is still under the influence of his environment and seldom acts differently than he would in the group. If the group has no self-control, the individual will not have. If were not for self-control, there is no telling what might happen in crowds—panics, for example, resulting when there is a multiplication of uncontrolled fears.

Mr. Stonehouse spoke next of the influence which emotionalism has had upon industrialism, patriotism and religion, dwelling particularly upon the religious element in religion. This element has been widely condemned and all emotionalism in religion has been discredited, but this disfavor is not altogether justified, as religion is of life and as such must express itself. Religion has to bear the shame of emotionalism without self-control, although the work of God's spirit has not been finally deferred by these extravagances. The lecturer spoke of these extravagances as being among others, Baal worship, hypnotism among the North American Indian, Shakerism, Millerism and the worship of the Southern American negro. Although the characteristics of these various forms of worship are those of primitive peoples, there is much mystery in regard to their emotional natures, when they lose self-control.

Rev. Mr. Stonehouse's paper was thoughtful and scholarly and was interspersed with much concrete illustration. At the close of the lecture the subject matter was discussed by Rev. William S. Jones, Mr. Frank Greenlaw and Mr. Herbert W. Lull.

THE HOLIDAY FIDDLING.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

A wise Chinaman, who occupied an important official position in this country several years ago, when asked what custom, habit, characteristic or social phenomenon of the western civilization and world excited his greatest wonder, said that the Christmas holiday season impressed him most deeply. He had noticed among his many acquaintances, consisting of all manner of people, that at the holiday season even the curmudgeons—there were curmudgeons in America, though he politely declared that there were few to the square mile—even the stingy, close, selfish people, who ordinarily gave themselves slight concern about the happiness or comfort of others, began to Christmas approached, to devise schemes to make other people happy.

The observation is a just one. The influence of the Christmas feeling searches out the most remote nooks and crannies of human nature in our national life and exercises a magic power of cheerfulness, of generosity, of brightness, charity, love and unselfishness. The observance of the Christmas holiday is almost universal among all kinds and conditions of men, and the ideas of amity, good feeling, cheerfulness and happiness, and especially the ideas which give rise to plans for the happiness of others, permeate the very air so thoroughly that it is impossible to escape the spirit which animates the whole population.

OUR GUESTS THE SNOWY OWLS.

[Nature and Science, in St. Nicholas.]

Every few years, especially along the sea coast and the larger rivers and lakes, there is a wave of those splendid, day-hunting rascals—the snowy owls. They are great fishermen, the only owls to make this sort of hunting a practice, and may sometimes be seen sitting, silent and motionless, like a block of ice, at the edge of the open water, waiting for a chance to grab an unsuspecting fish. Of course, this is not a very paying way to get a living, and they also catch field-mice, muskrats, hares, and even large birds like quail or grouse. But there are only two other birds of prey in our country that habitually eat fish, and one of these seldom catches its own, preferring to rob the fish-hawk of the shore or pirate it from the real fisherman—the osprey.

James T. Wright's Emancipation Act That Will Free Thousands.

No one appreciates better than the victim of indigestion that he is an abject slave to his stomach, and Mr. James T. Wright, in guaranteeing that Mi-o-na will strengthen the stomach so that you can eat what you want and when you want it, removes all fear of further bondage.

The stomach is to the body what the foundation is to the house, and when it is weakened or diseased, one organ after another is affected until the heart, lungs, kidneys, and liver will all be involved. Indigestion causes nervousness, sleeplessness, head aches, back-aches, distress after eating, furred tongue, and general weakness and debility.

Mi-o-na is not a mere temporary relief for indigestion, but a positive remedy for all stomach troubles, promoting good digestion, stimulating the secretions, and restoring health.

Ask James T. Wright to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na. A large box of the tablets sells for 50c. and costs nothing unless it cures.

ORIGINAL OF "THE VIRGINIAN."

John Henry Hicks, Manager of a Mexican Ranch, Married.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—A despatch to the Tribune from San Francisco says: The original of Owen Wister's "The Virginian," John Henry Hicks, manager of the great "E. O." ranch in Mexico, was married yesterday to Miss Katherine Adams, daughter of Edward F. Adams, editorial writer on a San Francisco newspaper. Hicks first met her when she was a school teacher at Etomba, Ariz. Mexican friends sent him a box of a dozen dolls, dressed to represent characters in Wister's story. Hicks and wife will live on the "E. O." ranch, which is south of the Rio Grande, 150 miles from El Paso.

MAN ARRESTED FOR BLACKMAIL.

Cardinal Vannutelli Received Threatening Letter Demanding Money.

ROME, Jan. 3.—Cardinal Vincent Vannutelli, arch priest of the Liberian basilica, received a note, which was posted in Rome, December 30, threatening the publication of compromising letters said to have been written by the cardinal, if he did not send one thousand lire ($200) addressed to the initials "C. E." to be left at the post-office to be called for. The cardinal handed the letter to the police, who today arrested a well dressed man who asked for a letter with the initials "C. E." The prisoner, whose name is kept secret and who protests his innocence, proved that when the blackmailing letter was posted in Rome he was in Genoa, where he landed on reaching Italy from New York.

Chicago Society Woman Who Was So Sick She Could Not Sleep or Eat, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

When a woman's kidneys go wrong, her back gives out and every little task becomes a burden. She is tired, nervous, sleepless, run down—suffers daily from backache, headaches, dizzy spells, and bearing-down pains.

Don't worry over imagined "female troubles." Cure the kidneys and you will be well. Read how to find the cure.

Marion Knight, of 33 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill., member of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and a well-known club woman, says: "This winter when I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I ached in every bone and had intense pains in the kidneys and pelvic organs. The urine was thick and cloudy, and I could barely eat enough to live. I felt a change for the better within a week. The second week I began eating heartily. I began to improve generally, and before seven weeks had passed I was well. I had spent hundreds of dollars for medicine that did not help me, but $6 worth of Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to perfect health."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Miss Knight will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

HOW'S YOUR STOMACH?

Wm. H. Cotton Has a Remedy Which He Guarantees to Cure the Worst Cases of Stomach Troubles.

I wish to tell the readers of this paper about a remedy for Dyspepsia, which is a marvel in medicine. It cures the worst cases, from the acute attack of indigestion to chronic dyspepsia. This remedy is known as Albert's Little Dinner Pill, being the prescription of Dr. Hutchinson, the noted specialist of London and Brighton, England, who previous to his decease had built up a remarkable practice as a specialist in diseases of the stomach. Dr. Hutchinson claimed that his success was due to the use of this pill, and since its introduction on the American continent it has performed wonderful cures.

Mr. J. H. Loudoun, Casco, Me., writes: "I am now past 81 years of age and have had stomach trouble practically all my life. I sent and got a sample package of Albert's Little Dinner Pill, thinking that it would turn out to be one more disappointment, but from the first dose I found relief, and can say that I am now better than ever before in my life. It is a wonderful cure for Dyspepsia and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers from Stomach trouble."

Albert's Little Dinner Pill contains no Physic, no Acid, Alkali, Ginger, Pepsin, Pancreatin, Soda, Morphine or any preparation of Opium, or in fact any of the ingredients usually found in so-called Dyspepsia cures. It cures by removing the cause and makes the worst cases well, being guaranteed to benefit or the purchase price returned. Sold at drug stores or by mail, 25 cents per package. Samples free. Address Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass. Sold and guaranteed by Wm. H. Cotton, 226 Thames street.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.

Accept no substitute—there is none.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

A NEEDED AMENDMENT.

Presidential Succession Defect in the Constitution.

Wonderful Journey Made to Locate a New Mail Route from Southern Alaska to Nome.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—It is very hard to amend the constitution of the United States. Every session of Congress it is attempted, but it has been nearly two score years since an amendment was adopted. Representative Littlefield of Maine, however, has introduced a resolution for an amendment which ought to be passed. It provides that in case of the death of the person elected President or his declination or inability to discharge the duties before his inauguration such duty shall devolve upon the person elected Vice President. Congress is also empowered to make provision for a President in case both President and Vice President should die between their election and the inauguration. The late Senator Hoar several times called attention to the defect in the constitution, but nothing has ever been done to provide for such a serious contingency.

James L. Galen, brother-in-law of Senator Carter, was in Washington recently and related incidents of a wonderful trip he and another man made in Alaska last winter. With two dog teams they went from Nome to Llamna bay, on Cook's inlet, more than a thousand miles overland. They started February 19 and reached their destination the last of May. Their food gave out, and at times it looked as if they and their dogs would starve. When in the direst straits they met an Indian and traded some sugar for fish. They fed the dogs and made a journey of 70 miles in one day and reached a shack where a man and his wife had located in a wilderness. Much that they saw and the experience they went through were of great interest. They made the trip to ascertain if there was a good route to carry the mail from southern Alaska to Nome. They went through a region which has never before been traversed by a white man and by few Indians.

When asked why he did not get his railroad bill ready, Chairman Elkins of the interstate commerce committee said: "I am having trouble with the constitutional lawyers of the Senate. They won't agree, and they all have so many theories. And the way they talk about each other is awful. 'Why, that man is silly,' said one, and 'He hasn't got any sense,' said another. All this, mind you, from constitutional lawyers who were commenting on each other's views. Why, they tear all my work to tatters. It is going to be mighty hard in there (the Senate) to get any kind of a bill through with all those fellows after it."

It is not such a very long time ago that New England, with her 12 Senators, held a dominating power in the Senate. Each of the 12, if my recollection is right, was chairman of an important committee. Beginning with Vermont, Morrill was at the head of finance and Edmunds of judiciary; Maine had Frye chairman of commerce and Hale of census; New Hampshire had Chandler chairman of immigration and Blair of education and labor; Massachusetts had Hoar chairman of privileges and elections and Dawes of Indian affairs; Connecticut had Hawley chairman of military affairs and Platt of territories; Rhode Island had Aldrich chairman of rules and Dixon of some minor committee, he being the only one of the 12 that was not prominently placed. Besides those chairmanships the New England men by reason of long service had positions on many of the best committees and in fact were a dominating force in the Senate. They are still pretty powerful, but the great power which they had 15 years ago has been distributed.

Representative Birdsall of Iowa, the man who succeeded former Speaker Henderson, tells a story of a suit in which he was interested. His client during the trial against a man named Cohen asked him if it would help any to send a box of cigars to the judge. "Don't do that," said Birdsall. "He would be sure to decide against you."

When judgment was rendered it was in favor of Birdsall's man, and he said, "I did send the judge that box of cigars."

"You did?" asked Birdsall in amazement.

"Yes; but I put Cohen's card in the box."

When Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee was struggling to retain control of insurance legislation for his committee he sought to shut off debate on the plea that his committee was very much engaged upon important matters and did not want to spend so much time in the House.

"If the gentleman from New York will permit me," interposed Representative Mann of Illinois, who was leading the fight to take the insurance legislation from the ways and means and give it to the interstate commerce committee, "we will endeavor to relieve his committee so that it will have more time hereafter."

And Mann was right. They did relieve Payne's committee of the insurance matter.

William Alden Smith of Michigan and a number of others were discussing politics in the light of recent developments and the talk turned on the Congressional elections next fall.

"It is likely to be a fast and furious campaign," remarked a newspaper man to Smith.

"Yes, I guess it will," was his rejoinder, "but Nick won't have any trouble."

He referred to Nicholas Longworth, who is to marry the President's daughter, and meant that the popularity of the bridegroom who marries the daughter of the White House will be sufficient to carry him. Probably Nick's friends will see that he is elected while he is honeymooning.

When the Senate committees were being made up Senator Kittredge of South Dakota indicated a desire to be placed on judiciary, a place sought by many lawyers. First one man and then another came to him and explained the pressure there was for the vacancies and how embarrassing it would be to give him the place. At last the South Dakota man asserted himself. "I understand," he said, "that it is proposed to put nice on the committee who have only recently become Senators. For six years I have cheerfully stood aside and submitted to the doctrine of seniority. Now I want my rights under that doctrine." And when this message was conveyed to the committee the members could do nothing but accept it.

There will be no meeting of St. Columba's Guild until the annual meeting, about the middle of January.

Mr. and Mrs. William Livesay Brown entertained a large family gathering at their home on the West Main road New Year's day.

Mr. Charles Peckham, 2d., is rebuilding a porch on his house, having enlarged it to be 13 feet square. Mr. Daniel A. Peckham is in charge of the work.

The Paradise Athletic Club has recently joined the Junior League of Newport.

Mr. Frank Brandt had a gathering of friends at his farm New Year's eve, to see the old year end. Refreshments were served.

AIR FOR FIREMEN.

[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

A Californian has invented a breathing apparatus for firemen. It is composed of a hood lined with oiled silk, and an air cylinder, strapped to the back, and carrying an hour's supply of air. A rubber tube brings the air to the head piece. The exhaled air goes out by a valve in front of the mouth. The whole thing weighs 23 pounds. The wearer can get only air enough to fill his lungs reasonably. He cannot use it all up in a little time. A San Francisco man put this apparatus on, worked for an hour in a room filled with the fumes of burning sulphur, and was all right in lungs and throat when he came out. If it does what it is described as doing it is a necessity for every fireman.

THE FISHERIES COMPANY.

Remarkable Development of Menhaden Business During Captain Church's Connection With It.

[Fall River News.]

When Captain N. B. Church retires as manager of the American Fisheries Company, about the tenth of January, he will leave a business in which he has been actively engaged for nearly 40 years, and which he has seen develop from small schooners, of a capacity of but a few hundred barrels, to the present large fleets of powerful steamers catching many thousand barrels in a day, and from the kettle on the shore, where the fish were cooked, in small quantities, to large factories, with a capacity of thousands of barrels, erected, and in all this he, himself, has borne a great part. By him and his brothers, it can safely be said, the present splendid method and system of catching and handling the menhaden was devised and perfected.

It was away back in the sixties, when Captain Church, then a boy, first started in the catching of menhaden, in schooner Dart. This craft had a capacity of but 250 barrels, and carry away boats were used, to take the fish from the schooner to the factories. In 1870, the Church Bros., Daniel, Joseph, Nathaniel, Isaac, James and Joseph, Sr., with Job Hathaway bought out an oil works at Bremen, Maine, which was run during the summer of 1871, with Nathaniel as superintendent. It was the year that a great change was made in the character of the vessels engaged in catching menhaden. The steamer Seven Brothers was built, in accordance with plans of James B. Church. So perfect were the boat and its fittings, that to this day there has been but little change in the construction of any of the vessels. In 1873, the Joseph Church Company secured control of the Narragansett factory and operated it very successfully, until 1890, when Daniel bought out his brothers and operated the factory alone.

Nathaniel then went into the commission business in New York city, and in 1897 brought about the organization of the American Fisheries Company, which embraced all the factories in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and many other states. A magnificent fleet of 38 fishing vessels was got together and fishing was done on a large scale. Captain Church was president and general manager of this company, and has continued in that capacity for the various companies that have been organized to succeed it. When he leaves the management he will turn over a splendid property, with several factories in the best of repair, the best apparatus that can be obtained, a fleet of more than 10 steamboats and repair shops at Tiverton.

The development of the menhaden fisheries has been the prosperity of Tiverton, for the Narragansett factory has directly and indirectly benefitted every individual in the town, and it is hoped that the change in management will not in any way work to the disadvantage of the town.

LIFE IN A CHOIR SCHOOL.

How Choristers of New York's Episcopal Cathedral are Trained.

Military Drill and Healthful Sport a Part of the Course, While Football is Barred.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Jan 2.—Within the great picketed enclosure that surrounds the estate of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Morningside Heights, New York, stands far back on an ancient square mansion of faded yellowish brick, the back windows of which look out upon a noisy stone quarry and dusty heaps of huge stones that one by one are raised every day and merged into the cathedral walls. Already these walls tower overpoweringly high above the flat roof of the ancient boy's itself.

Years ago this was the Leake and Watts Orphan Asylum. Orphans swarmed everywhere, up and down its imposing stone steps and around its classic pillars. Within the bare-walled, high-ceilinged rooms inside these used to be children in rows of beds at night—and by day at rows of porridge bowls and in rows of desks. Now the worn yet dignified entrance admits to the great convention hall of the Episcopal conference; the east wing is given over to that part of the cathedral draughting and modelling work which may be done indoors, the cathedral choir school is quartered in the west wing, and the orphans, most of them, have long since departed to find the lost relationship whose lack stigmatized their identities.

Happily, a different lot of children now pervade the west wing—not motherless, fatherless, homeless dependents but fortunate sons of more or less well-to-do parents, who manfully pay for their own schooling with their stipend 30 boys in gray uniforms trimmed with the purple cathedral braid, who return every day after 5 o'clock evensong to comfortable homes throughout the city.

The choir boys in their stalls in the crypt under the growing choir, enshrouded in purple, and surplice'd in white, are models of perfect behavior such as the possibilist observer cannot associate in his mind with the boys he has known. He is inclined to think that the choir boys were specially born to that estate, that these are an entire earthly boys who sit in the chancel. And, in a sense, the possibility does correctly; the choicest may not be merely any boy with a good voice. He is chosen for his good disposition and his good breeding, as well as for his power to sing well. There is such a thing in the mind of the head master as the ideal choirster, and, to approximate that, a boy must be an all-around little gentleman with a sound body.

He is taken in the school on probation, and after a few weeks generally proves himself. Not invariably, however. Sometimes all the powers of evil may successfully be smothered in a small boy's interior for the length of the probatory period and longer, only suddenly, dismayingly to break out at an unexpected provocation. Even the choir boy who is most firmly fixed in innocence is not an unearthly cherub, but, on parade, frequently is "mobbing" but a monkey," subject to reproof and discipline.

In the subjects that it teaches, the choir school is like any other day school, except that instruction is free, including even "extras" and a musical education. The cost of military uniforms and text books is borne by the pupils' parents. The school is organized into a military company, with officers of its own, from captain down to sergeant, and it drills for 15 minutes before school begins at 9 o'clock every morning. Once a week it is carefully supervised in a regular military drill by the army officer who takes charge of the military operations at St. John's school in Fordham.

It is not to make little the soldiers out of the cathedral boys that they are taught to shoulder arms and march and countermarch each day, and to enter the class room in well-organized battle array and to retire without disorder. It is part of the discipline that trains the spirit as well as the body to an "eyes front, head up" policy. A boy needs poise and self-control to sit to a stiff staff through a service lasting from an hour and a half to twice that time, which never a side glance at the congregation, and never a whisper, or so much as a smile through all those hours for the best friend sitting in the row, who is fairly pent up, as it were, with a kindred need to express himself. Restraint is one of the virtues of paraphernalia for "doing stunts."

Football is barred. On second thought one will not sympathize too excessively with the deprived choristers, chorusing cherubim in the classic carved stalls of St. John's with bedraggled noses and black eyes and ears decorated with sticking plaster—not to mention missing whole cherubim. For similar reasons the weekly school holiday has been transferred from Saturday to Monday. Sunday, thus, with its double duty of service at 11 and at 4, does not dawn upon a possibly disgruntled band of singers, crippled and demoralized with the purely secular adventures of the day before. These advantages, perhaps, are anticipated for the day after, but to whatever pastime the choir boy may thus devote his soul, at least he is given the longest possible time to recover his balance and his suitability of aspect.

The musical lesson in the choir school comes in the forenoon at 11, and additional individual instruction is given to boys of special promise. There is practice in singing every day at five o'clock during vespers, and on Sundays the choir is called on for both services. The music, in accordance with Episcopal law, is of the pure Anglican type, as written by Stainer, Tozely, Purcell, Arcadelt and other composers in that field. The choir boy is taught to read at sight, properly to phrase and blend—to master his voice thoroughly.

Though the first object of the school is to make the cathedral choir as perfect as possible, the life of the boys is little affected by this motive. Nowhere else has the principle of the boarding school been worked down so successfully to the day school. The pupils are on the streets only in their comings and goings at the 9 o'clock beginning of the day, and its ending shortly before 5. All day long they are under the supervision and the personal care of a head master, whose ability to enter into the life of the boys is proven plainly enough in the strong personal affection that they have, one and all, for him.

After all, this is only an unsatisfactory makeshift. The institution is inadequate and will remain so until it becomes a resident school, like every successful choir school in the country today. The big cathedral should unquestionably have the finest choir in the city, and this can be developed only under a resident school system. In such case, the whole country, instead of the environs of the cathedral, would be the field from which material could be selected.

To get the best results, too, in training, the choir boy should be constantly under one jurisdiction; not subject to the frequently upsetting counter influence of home rule. If the boy is to be sufficiently impressed with some beginning of an idea as to the significance of praise in a church, or if he is to work conscientiously over his music and keep his heart in it, he must live in the atmosphere of the music and the church, and be guarded for a time from mental distortions in his bringing up. From the boy's point of view, and the parents' point of view, the advantages would be those of any good boarding school, with the extra inducement that there advantages are to be had, together with a musical education, for no money beyond the nominal cost of uniform and text books. A resident choir school would give for nothing a preparatory school education equal to any that parents are paying for at $600 and $850, and even $1,500 a year.

MEN TO FLY LIKE BIRDS.

John P. Holland, the inventor of the submarine boat in use by the navy, is putting the finishing touches to a flying machine which he expects to have ready for an experiment in the early part of spring. He believes that the machine will be the solution to the problem of man's aerial flight. So confident is Mr. Holland of the practicability of his machine that he did not hesitate to say that within a year men would be soaring through the air with as much safety and ease as while walking.

The question of the control of his machine by the operator, the inventor said, was one which occupied most of his attention, and in planning a "flyer" which is to be propelled by human power alone, combined with the elements necessary for aerial navigation, the stumbling block of all other machines—the construction of the mechanism with ample safeguard against accident—has been obliterated. Compared to the aeroplane the only advantage Mr. Holland said that his invention had was in its motive power. The aeroplane, he admitted, would be used to more advantage in the carrying of freight or passengers, but his vehicle is to be for individual travel.

The machine which the inventor will use in his experiments will when completed weigh about 30 pounds. It will be arranged to be strapped about the back, fastening firmly but easily about the waist and at the shoulders. There will be two vertical arms crossing at right angles from the axis and two pairs of wings which are to vibrate in opposite directions. One pair will be placed at the back of the head, and the other near the wrist. They will be so arranged that they may be operated by the feet or hands, or by both.

The inventor declared that he was not exaggerating when he said that a man who could walk three miles an hour could with his machine make the same distance with no more exertion than it requires in walking in little more than ten minutes. The wings are to weigh about a pound each. They will be of Krupp steel.

"My machine will be patterned much after the actions of a bird," said Mr. Holland. "A man will be able to fly as he will, and like a bird, say, for instance, the eagle, will be able to soar. There will be absolutely no danger as with other machines when a rog will break or something else will go wrong. You will ask what will happen if a man gets up in my machine and becomes exhausted. There will be no danger then. As soon as the propelling ceases, like a bird which stops the motion of its wings, he will soar to the earth and land so that his feet will reach the earth first.

"The speed will depend a great deal upon the course of the winds. There are many points involved which cannot be determined until after I have made my first experiment. You can say that in a year we will all be flying. We can go down to the next incauguration in Washington and fly back the same night."

BLACKBURN DEFEATED.

Judge Paynter Nominated for Senator by Kentucky Democrats.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 2.—Judge Thomas H. Paynter of the Kentucky court of appeals was nominated on the first ballot taken in joint caucus tonight to select a Democratic candidate for United States Senator to succeed J. C. S. Blackburn. The nomination carried with it the certainty of election, as the Democrats have more than two thirds of the combined membership of both branches of the legislature. The vote was as follows: Judge Thomas H. Paynter, 59; Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, 34; W. B. Haldeman, 10; Congressman David H. Smith, 1. Necessary to nomination 53.

Judge Paynter's nomination ends one of the hardest fought Senatorial struggles waged during the past 27 years of Kentucky politics. His nearest opponent was J. C. S. Blackburn, the incumbent, who has represented Kentucky in the House and Senate, with one intermission, for nearly a quarter of a century.

Until two days ago it was generally believed that there would be a deadlock in the caucus. When the house and Senate members for the purpose of organizing these bodies were held last night it became apparent that Judge Paynter, who was backed by Governor Beckham, and the state administration men, would gain the coveted prize. When the joint caucus met tonight there was no contest over the chairmanship.

United States Senator James B. McCreary was Senator Blackburn's chief supporter, and in this connection politicians already foresee one of the effects of the contest on Kentucky politics in the future.

Thomas H. Paynter was born in Lewis county, Ky., Dec. 19, 1851. He has served three terms in Congress, and is a member of the Kentucky court of appeals.

Every Niece and Nephew of Uncle Sam should be deeply interested in what he has said about soda crackers, because they are the one food with which all of them are familiar.

Uncle Sam has given out figures showing that soda crackers are richer in nutriment and body-building elements, properly proportioned, than any food made from flour.

This is saying much for common soda crackers, and much more for Uneeda Biscuit, because they are soda crackers of the best quality. They are baked better—more scientifically. They are packed better—more cleanly. The damp, dust and odor proof package retains all the goodness and nutriment of the wheat, all the freshness of the best baking, all the purity of the cleanest bakeries.

Your Uncle Sam has shown what food he thinks best for his people. His people have shown that they think Uneeda Biscuit the best of that food, nearly 400,000,000 packages having already been consumed.

NEW YORK STATE ASSEMBLY MEETS

Wadsworth Made Speaker; Higgins Reads Message.

Resolution for Depew's Resignation Withdrawn.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 3.—The state legislature convened at noon today under unusual conditions. The closing of one of the bitterest factional fights for the Assembly Speakership in many years, the understanding that Senator Edgar S. Brackett of Saratoga would introduce his joint resolution requesting the resignation of United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, the intensity of feeling resulting from the disclosures of the investigation—all these things drew upon the opening of the session today a degree of public interest greater than for many years past. There was very much more than the usual interest also in the annual message of Governor Higgins to the legislature.

The political atmosphere today was strangely quiet after the Speakership struggle. State Chairman Odell left for Newburgh. He would say nothing as to the Speakership, the state chairmanship or his future plans.

The assembly and the senate were called to order shortly after noon today. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., the Republican caucus nominee, was elected Speaker of the Assembly.

Speaker Wadsworth, on taking the chair in the assembly, spoke briefly, and Lieutenant Governor Bruce opened the senate with a brief address. The annual message of Governor Higgins to the legislature was read in each house.

Senator Brackett of Saratoga, soon after the legislature convened, introduced a resolution demanding of Chauncey M. Depew his resignation as United States Senator from this state. The resolution in full is as follows:

"Since the adjournment of this senate the people of the state and nation have been staggered by the relation shown to have existed for years between the Equitable Life Assurance Society and Chauncey M. Depew, one of the Senators of the state in the United States Congress.

"Recognizing that these disclosures have caused a total lack of confidence in the ability of the Senator named to properly represent the people in the body to which he was elected,

"Resolved by the senate, That Chauncey M. Depew be and he hereby is requested to forthwith resign his seat in the United States Senate."

When the resolution was introduced Senator Raines said he had not been staggered by Senator Depew's acts, and failed to see in the resolution anything that called for action. He moved that the resolution be referred to the committee on federal relations when appointed.

Senator Malby said if Senator Depew had done anything unlawful or that unfitted him to hold office, the charges should be framed immediately. He eulogized Senator Depew, who, he said, was one of the grand characters of the civilized world. He denounced the attitude of "alleged reformers," who, kicked every one and made wild charges. Perhaps there were seasons why every Senator should be asked to resign. Yellow dogs may be nibbling at Senator Depew's heels, but he has decorated all positions that he has held. The resolution should not be referred to any committee, but should be disposed of forthwith.

The resolution was withdrawn.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The Ethiopia from Glasgow and Moville for New York is reported by wireless as having passed Nantucket lightship at 7:20 a. m.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Owing to the small number of pupils attending the North district school, the school committee has deemed it advisable to discontinue the school during the remainder of the winter.

The directors of the Jamestown & Newport Ferry Company held their monthly meeting last evening. Little business except the paying of bills was transacted.

Miss Mabel Watson will leave tomorrow for an extended visit to Saranac Lake. During her absence Miss Jessie Smith will act as organist of St. Matthew's Church.

Mr. William Nicholas of Providence was in town today on business.

A special meeting of the town council was held last evening, to take action on the quarantine of the scarlet fever case at the home of R. T. Mathewson. It was voted that Dr. E. C. Dullard be authorized to lift the quarantine, and have the house properly fumigated, and disinfected. Councilman Tefft, as a committee, reported that he had secured I. Clinton Mosher as policeman to fill a vacancy.

A. W. Luther has sold, for Dr. Kate Stanton of Newport, her lot located on the north side of Friendship street, to Mr. Charles M. McCloud of Philadelphia. The lot is bounded as follows: Northerly, 50 feet, on land of Mary M. Clarke; easterly, 100 feet, on land of Mary Hogan; southerly, 50 feet, on Friendship street, and westerly, 100 feet, on land of the grantee.

At the meeting of the Parish Aid Society last evening the members were entertained with progressive whist. Miss Jessie E. Knowles and Mr. W. P. Champlin, 2d, taking the prizes.

TO BUY INSTEAD OF BUILD.

Government Able to Purchase to Advantage a Boat for Torpedo Station Ferry.

The need of better ferry facilities between this city and the Torpedo Station has long been agitated and last year Senator Wetmore succeeded in securing a naval appropriation for that purpose. The appropriation being available, the matter was turned over to the bureau of construction and plans were drawn for a good-sized, double-ended propeller boat, as the type of craft required. Since then the department has located in the yard of a bankrupt shipbuilding firm a boat well suited to the need, at a price much under that for which it could expect to build anything either at one of the navy yards or by contract; and it is now reported that it is proposed to purchase this boat. The price, it is understood, is $23,000.

The purchase of this boat would mean that it would be in service at an earlier date than if one were built, a fact which would be very welcome at the station, where even by the use of several launches it is impossible to transport comfortably the crowds who travel at certain hours, while it has been claimed that the conditions under which the ferrying is done are dangerous. In the planning of the Government dock the possibility of a regular ferry steamer landing there was considered, and there is a space at the foot of the driveway leading from Thames street where a suitable slip could be built without interference with the present landing stages.

FUNERAL OF HENRY A. HEATH.

The funeral of Mr. Henry A. Heath took place this afternoon from his late residence on Powel avenue, and was attended by a large number of friends and business associates. The arrangements were the same as for the funeral of Mrs. Heath, which took place last Saturday morning. Rev. J. A. Richards of the United Congregational Church and Rev. Walter Lowrie of Trinity Church officiated, and the St. Cecilia quartet sang. The interment was beside the grave of Mrs. Heath in the Island cemetery. The bearers were the same as for Mrs. Heath's funeral, Messrs. Gardner S. Perry, William P. Huffum, William D. Sayer and A. Russell Manchester.

DEATH OF JAMES S. WHITE.

News was received here this morning of the sudden death in Providence, from acute indigestion, of Mr. James S. White, a former Newporter. Mr. White was the only son of Annie E. and the late Charles H. White and a grandson of the late James D. Seabury. He was born here about 38 years ago, and lived here until 12 years ago, when he removed to Providence, where he had since made his home. His father, Charles H. White, opened the first Newport office of the Adams Express Company, in Newport, in 1876, and continued in charge of it until his death. The son was employed by the company as a messenger between this city and Providence, and made his home here until 1891, when he secured another route in the employ of the express company, which made Providence a more convenient place for residence. Two years ago he entered the employ of the Gorham Manufacturing Company. He married Miss Mary S. Manuel, a daughter of the late Anthony Manuel of this city, and she with one child survives.

Mr. White was a companionable man and had many friends in Newport. His interest in the city and his friends here never flagged. He is described by one who knew him from his boyhood as of a pleasant, cheerful disposition, a good worker and liked by all associated with him. The body will be brought here for burial in the Island Cemetery.

THE PERRY HOUSE AND OPERA HOUSE DEEDS.

The deed of the Perry House and Opera House properties has been filed for record at the city clerk's office. Henry Bull, Jr., Charles M. Bull of Brooklyn and Mrs. Harriet E. Smyth of Philadelphia have sold their three-fifths interest in the properties to Dr. William T. Bull of New York and Melville Bull of Middletown. The estate is bounded north on Touro street and the estate of Thomas Gladding, east on land of Gladding, a way and the Hazard Memorial School; south by lands of Thomas Congeshall, E. A. Sherman, Gould and Harriet Smyth, and west by the estates of R. H. Young, Gould, Cozzens and Harriet Smyth.

DAY OF MOURNIG FOR THE MARTYRS.

curred, into a day of national mourning for the martyrs. It is proposed to make a gigantic, peaceful manifestation, but if they attempt to carry it out the leaders fully understand that it is sure to precipitate bloodshed on a large scale.

From Admiral Rojestvensky's account of his tactics in the battle of the Sea of Japan, published in the Novoe Vremya today, the reader is almost convinced that the Russian commander out-manoeuvred Admiral Togo at every point and was himself the real victor. He declares he knew Admiral Togo's exact whereabouts two days before the battle, made his dispositions accordingly, and entered the fight with his eyes open. The admiral only casually states in the course of his letter that the minister of marine is investigating the causes of the catastrophe, in order to determine whether the commander shall be court-martialled for the loss of his fleet.

The charge that the British admiral concentrated his ships at Wei Hai Wei, expecting to receive an order to destroy the Russians in the event of Admiral Togo proving unequal to the task, has aroused a considerable sensation, especially as Admiral Rojestvensky's letter was published with the permission of the minister of marine, and no doubt is entertained that it will be made the subject of diplomatic representations to Great Britain.

The government is putting on the screws tighter and tighter. War Minister Rudiger has absolutely prohibited officers, privates and employes of the military of war from participating in political societies, prescribing heavy punishments which will be inflicted without trial.

The use of the telephone between St. Petersburg, Moscow and other points, which has been used by the revolutionists, has been prohibited to private individuals except by permission of the authorities.

The number of arrests are increasing daily and the prisons are crowded.

So far as ascertainable not one of those arrested under the last three weeks has been released. Professor Paul M. Milukoff's Narodnaia Svoboda, which yesterday made an ardent appeal to the electors to prepare for the campaign and to organize meetings for the propagation of the program of the constitutional Democrats, has been suppressed.

The Commercial Gazette estimates that 50,000 Jews have emigrated to America since the massacres.

TO DESTROY RUSSIAN FLEET.

British Squadron Ready if Japanese Had Been Defeated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 3.—The remarkable allegation that the British fleet was held in readiness to destroy the Russian fleet if the battle of the Sea of Japan had gone in favor of the Russians is made by Admiral Rojestvensky, in a letter published in the Novoe Vremya, with the permission of the minister of marine. Referring to the absolute secrecy of Admiral Togo in regard to the disposition of his forces, Rojestvensky declares that "this was unknown even to the admiral of the British fleet, allied with the Japanese, who concentrated his forces at Wei Hai Wei, in expectation of receiving an order to annihilate the Russian fleet, if this, the final object of Great Britain, was beyond the power of the Japanese."

SPORTS AT COLUMBIA.

Question to be Discussed by Undergraduates, Alumni and Faculty.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—President Butler of Columbia yesterday made a considerable concession to the students by appointing an undergraduate committee to confer on athletic matters with his faculty and alumni committees already appointed. These three bodies will meet and discuss the question of what is to be done with intercollegiate sport at Columbia, and just what sports are to be confined to university competition and which shall be continued on their present footing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Anaconda at 256, Amalgamated Copper 108½, American Locomotive 75¾, American Smelting 167¾, Atchison 81½, Baltimore & Ohio 113¾, Brooklyn Transit 87¾, Canadian Pacific 172½, Erie 48¾, Louisville & Nashville 153½, Missouri Pacific 100¼, New York Central 150¼, Norfolk & Western 86, Northern Pacific 202, Pennsylvania 143½, Reading 142¾, Rock Island 23¾, Sugar 150, St. Paul 180, Southern Railway 37½, Southern Pacific 65¾, Union Pacific 118, United States Steel (2)½, United States Steel preferred 106¾, Wabash preferred 40¾.

11—The indication manifested at the outset was not continued long, the spirited buying of Reading and some of the western grain carriers making rapid and full recoveries in all directions. Shelling, which had yielded 2, rallied 2¼, and Anaconda also rebounded four points. Profit-taking in Reading began on a large scale after it crossed 144, and it fell back 1½. Other stocks yielded fractionally, but the entire list showed declined strength again at 11 o'clock, when Reading was weak at the top.

Noon—Money on call, strong, at 25 to 40 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. The strength of the special stocks held the market firm in spots, but the general level did not rise much above yesterday's closing. Reading's 2¾ point rise carried it to a second price, at 144¾. Bonds were irregular.

PERRY BROS. COAL CO.

APPROVES THE UNION.

Central Baptist Acts Informally on Plan and Call of Dr. Quick.

Name of United Church Not Decided, But Central's House of Worship to be Used.

The Central Baptist Church held a special meeting last evening, for the purpose of taking action preparatory to a formal vote upon the proposed union of the Central and Second Baptist churches. Last night's action was in reality only an expression of opinion upon a subject which up to the present time has been in the hands of committees, the final report for formal action having not yet been completed. There was a good attendance at the meeting, 124 voting on the question of union. Only six of these votes were in the negative, and these were later withdrawn, making the action unanimous.

The matter of calling Rev. G. W. Quick, D. D., was then taken up and it was voted unanimously that he be called as pastor over the united churches. It was formally voted to invite Dr. Quick to preach at the Central church Sunday and to invite the members of the Second Baptist Church to worship there on that day.

While the joint committee has not completed details for the union, the members of both churches individually have expressed themselves as favorable to the change and the informal action of the Central last evening is considered auspicious. The name of the united church has not been settled; the name of one or the other may be taken, or an entirely new name be selected. The home of worship of the Central church will, it is quite definitely settled, be the home of the new church. It is expected that the Second church will be called together soon to take action.

THE UNION SERVICES.

Final Plans and Arrangements for Opening the Series.

First Meeting Sunday Evening, With Two Addresses, a Chorus and the Euterpe Club.

Yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal Church the general committee on the union services to be held in the Opera House on Sunday evenings this month, made up of the ministers and laymen representing the co-operating churches, held an adjourned session. Mr. H. W. Lull, the chairman, presided, and final plans and arrangements were made preliminary to the opening of the series of services next Sunday evening.

Reports were received from the sub-committees on finance, on printing, on seating, on program and on music. Although the meetings are to be, as last year, open to all and the public is earnestly invited to attend, it was announced that tickets had been printed for distribution, giving the dates of the services and the names of the speakers on the different evenings. These are in no sense tickets of admission, and are not necessary to secure entrance to the house, but are simply to be used as personal invitations to the recipients to be present. Advertising cards will be displayed in the cars of both street railroads, which have freely granted the privilege, calling the attention of the traveling public to the services. The hymns to be used by the congregation during the meetings will be distributed in printed form, as last year. The plan of seating the audience will be much the same as before, the members of the general committee, under the direction of Chairman Lull, acting as ushers and as a committee of welcome.

As already announced, the program for the services, arranged by the participating pastors, provides for two addresses on each of the first two evenings, and for a principal and two briefer addresses on the third evening. The musical program, which will be in the general charge of Mr. A. H. Dadman in connection with the pastors, will include congregational singing, a large chorus of mixed voices on the stage, and piano and cornet accompaniments. In addition, on each evening there will be special features, including a male quartet and soloists. All singers, men and women, young and old, who can carry a tune, are asked to join the chorus. A brief rehearsal will be held each Sunday evening in the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium at 7 o'clock, just preceding the Opera House service, and the leader, Mr. Dadman, hopes to meet at least 100 singers at the first rehearsal, next Sunday evening.

Sunday evening next, at 7:30 o'clock, the first service in the series will be held. The speakers for the evening, as previously announced, are to be Rev. William Safford Jones of the Channing Memorial Church and Rev. Charles A. Stenhouse of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. In addition to the congregational and chorus singing of hymns, there will be on that evening selections by the Euterpe Quartet, made up of Messrs. H. H. Luther, Nelson R. Daby, J. F. Marden, Jr., and M. W. Dashord. Mr. H. Leonard Jeter will play the cornet accompaniments for the chorus singing.
